BOTH SIDES MAKE POINTS IN WAR GAME

Navy Scores Most Honors, but the Mayflower Is Theoretically Sunk.

SHIPS CAPTURE BLOCK ISLAND

FLEET HEADED FOR LONG ISLAND SOUND

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

New York, Sept. 1.—Both army and navy scored in this, the first day of the war game, most of the honors going to the navy.

Admiral Higginson's fleet put in an active day. It began with the seizure by the Brooklyn and Indiana of Block island, from which Newport, New London and New York are menaced. The army signal station there was seized. As to the fate of the signal men, army and navy reports differ.

Late tonight the news was that the warships were attempting to force the eastern entrance to Long Island sound. Fort Michie, on Gull island, was under fire, and Forts Wright and Terry were assisting in the effort to sink the attacking force.

While the main squadron was thus engaged the Olympia made a dash on Woods hole and destroyed the cable and telephone stations there, cutting off Nantucket and Marthas Vineyard from communication with the mainland.

Fort Wright at 10:20 tonight exchanged shots with a battleship of the Indiana type as she passed Fort Wright going toward Fort Terry on the Long Island side. Afterward the guns of Fort Terry were heard, apparently trained upon the battleship. A message was received a short time ago from the signal station at Fort Mansfield announcing that the whole fleet was coming toward Fishers island.

The Mayflower Blown Up.

An officer in the fort there is authority for the statement that the Mayflower was blown up, theoretically, by a submarine mine, while attempting to force an entrance at Fort Gutt.

The Scorpion and Nina have been sent on scouting expeditions. A night attack on New London is said to be planned.

The first message was received from Block Island by Col. Rober, in command at Point Judith (R. I.) station. It is signed "Snell," and says:

Block Island (12:30)—Have only two men left. Would suggest using wire in place of heliograph for present. Four men captured. Have agreed with enemy to take no further part in the maneuvers if enemy would retire. I am at blind telegraph office. Think there are many civilian spies about. Ten or more ships in sight from Beacon Hill, but in a position as at last reported, except collier, which is outside with others.

Beacon Hill station was abandoned after a bombardment of two hours and a quarter, and the guard escaped before a superior force of marines, landed under cover of the fire from the vessels at Great Salt Pond harbor. Eight hundred marines are now holding the station and guarding the approaches.

Information was received from Woods Hole by a line other than that which was supposed to be destroyed by the enemy, thus showing the efficiency of Gen. Greely's corps of signal men.

Gen. MacArthur told this evening of his extreme satisfaction with the working of the wireless telegraph. Most of the messages received were by that system. This was the first time the system had been used in the maneuvers.

Once tonight Newport got a scare when a message came from Port Judith that marines were being landed there in the fog. All communication with that point was cut off. Then at 10:30 came an official bulletin, announcing the bombardment of Forts Michi and Wright, but when Point Judith signal station was again in touch with the central intelligence bureau it was explained that the signal men there were giving a drill in saving equipment on the supposition that the enemy was making a landing.

PORT TRUMBULL, NEW LONDON, CONN., Sept. 2.—This official army bulletin was posted at headquarters at 12:22 a. m.:

"Movement to pass through the race began at 10:20 p. m. Forts Michie, Wright and Terry engaged 50 minutes. Apparently the ships entering have been put out of action by points scored by the army guns."

The result, however, will be determined later by the board of arbitration.

PRESIDENT NAILS TWO.

Declares Knox Is Not Considered for Supreme Court Nor Wood for Canal Commissioner.

EAST NORTHFIELD, MASS., Sept. 1.—The attention of the president having been called to the published statement that Attorney General Knox's name was being considered with the view of appointing him to a justiceship on the supreme bench to succeed Justice George C. Shiras, it can be said, on the authority of the president himself, that not only does he not contemplate such a move, but Justice Shiras has not resigned.

The president classed all such statements as without the least foundation, and said they only come into his mind when he sees them in print.

The same published statement also credits him with having reached the conclusion to place the construction on the isthmian canal under the jurisdiction of the army with Gen. Leonard Wood as chairman of the canal committee. The president likewise is authority for the statement that he has no intention whatsoever of changing the civil nature of the commission.

Aeronauts Frostbitten.

DENVER, Sept. 1.—After a lapse of more than 24 hours, during which no word was received from the three aeronauts, Thomas Baldwin, C. L. Shotman and Percy Hudson, who left Denver yesterday to try for a balloon voyage to New York, a telegram came tonight announcing that the airship had been wrecked in a storm 27 miles north of Florence, Col. Although bruised and somewhat frostbitten, the occupants were not seriously hurt.

PELEE'S WRATH FINDS OVER 200 OTHER VICTIMS

Eruptions Which Began August 15 Culminate on Saturday Night.

NORTHERN HALF OF ISLAND DEVASTATED

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

Castries, Island of St. Lucia, Sept. 1.—Mont Pelee has been in constant eruption since August 15. There was an enormous fall of ashes from the volcano the night of the 25th.

There was a very severe eruption the night of the 28th, when the volcanic rumblings were heard at a great distance. The mountain burned fiercely that night, and out at sea passing vessels were covered with ashes. On the night of the 30th there were three serious eruptions.

A terrible eruption occurred at 9 o'clock Saturday night, the 30th. People who arrived at Fort de France from the northern part of the island reported that the village of Morne Rouge, near the district previously devastated, had been entirely destroyed and Le Carbet, a village on the coast, which was destroyed at the time of the great eruption, had been swept by a tidal wave. About 200 persons lost their lives. At Fort de France the tidal wave did no damage, but drove the frightened inhabitants into the interior.

Still More Loss of Life.

In addition to the 200 persons reported to have lost their lives at Le Carbet and Morne Rouge, many other persons are said to have been killed all over the northern districts of the islands. The governor of Martinique is believed to have started for the scene of destruction.

It is impossible to approach the ruined town of St. Pierre from the sea. The people of Le Carbet are terror-stricken and flying to the interior. Hot water is pouring down on Lorrain and Basse Pointe, villages northeast of the crater. Horrible detonations were heard, the ground rocked and quaked and articles on the wharves were thrown to the floor.

The governor of Martinique has ordered every available boat to remove people from coast villages to Fort de France.

At 8 o'clock Saturday evening and without warning one-half of the horizon was obscured by a pitch-black cloud of dust. This cloud was the center of magnificent electric effects, the flashes of light surpassing the most elaborate fireworks. Flames and flashes continued to burst from the cloud until Friday midnight.

A Shower of Fiery Balls.

Columns of flame shot out of the crater of Mont Pelee, to explode about the cloud in showers of balls of golden fire, which fell through the darkness in myriads of sparks. These large aureoles were seen in the sky over the opening of the crater.

Shortly after midnight there came another shower of ashes, accompanied by vivid sheet lightning.

When the steamer Korona arrived here yesterday she was covered with ashes and scoria.

A sloop from the island of St. Vincent, which reached here this morning, reports that Mont Pelee's crater is now quiet, but that the detonations during Saturday night were the loudest heard up to that time, and that the inhabitants were terribly alarmed.

Noted Priest May Be Lost.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—(Special.)—Although the dispatches do not mention who have lost their lives on the island of Martinique by the latest eruption of Mont Pelee, it is probable that Pere Mary, the noble priest who stood to his post without flinching through the eruptions of the volcano, perished with those of his parishioners who remained at Morne Rouge. Pere Mary had been repeatedly warned that if he remained at Morne Rouge he would always be in peril. His reply was always this: "While any of my flock remain my place is here with them."

When the eruption of May 8 took place he gathered his parishioners about him in the church, where he prayed with them for deliverance. Ever since the eruption of May 8, in which St. Pierre was destroyed, there have been only a few hundred persons in Morne Rouge, although its former population was about 8,000.

EIGHTEEN VESSELS ARE DRIVEN ASHORE AND MANY DROWNED

Five Ships Dashed to Pieces on Rocks and Not a Single Man Escapes.

FIFTY BODIES RECOVERED

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

Cape Town, Sept. 1.—Eighteen vessels, mostly sailing craft, have been driven ashore in a gale at Port Elizabeth. Five of them were dashed to pieces and all the members of their crews were lost. Two tugs are also reported to have foundered and a score of lighters are ashore. Fifty bodies have already washed ashore.

Sir John Gordon Sprigg, the premier, said in the house of assembly this afternoon that he feared the loss of life from the gale would be enormous.

The storm broke shortly before last midnight and was accompanied by a deluge of rain and brilliant lighting. The night was very dark. Several tugs went out to the assistance of the endangered vessels, but nothing was visible from the shore at Port Elizabeth.

Daylight revealed the beach at the north end of Algoa bay strewn with vessels lying high and dry while others were in the surf and being swept by the huge breakers. With the exception of four vessels which foundered with all hands, every sailing vessel in the roadstead was ashore by midday. Many steamers, after weathering the storm all night, steamed out to sea at daybreak.

The British steamer Scot, belonging to the Union Steamship Company of Southampton, left Port Elizabeth Saturday for Cape Town. She was due here early this morning, but has not been sighted. Anxiety is felt regarding her fate. The steamer Briton, also belonging to the Union Steamship Company, was blown ashore and narrowly escaped destruction.

ELKIN NON-COMMITTAL.

Refuses to Say How He Stands on the Citizens' Party Indorsements.

HARRISBURG, PA., Sept. 1.—(Special.)—Attorney General Elkin declines to discuss the report that Gov. Stone may call an extra session of the general assembly to enact arbitration legislation that will end the coal strike.

Mr. Elkin returned to Harrisburg tonight from a visit to his home at Indiana, Pa. He will go to Philadelphia on Wednesday to attend the meeting of the Republican state committee. He refuses to indicate what position he will take if a resolution is offered in the committee requiring Republican state nominees to decline the indorsement by the Citizens party of Allegheny.

ITALIAN STABBED TWO AMERICANS AND ONE IS DEAD

LYNCHING IS EXPECTED

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Irwin, Pa., Sept. 1.—Edna, the new coal town, last evening was the scene of a bloody cutting affray in which one man was stabbed to death and another is lying at the point of death with five ugly gashes on various portions of the body, while the murderer is yet at large.

The scene of the encounter was on a hillside, back of the mine opening. There were gathered six men, who had purchased two kegs of beer for a Sunday afternoon debauch. In the party were Christ. Caldwell, John Scott and an Italian miner, Lervey Angelo. They were more or less intoxicated and got into a quarrel. Caldwell and Scott attacked the Italian. The latter drew a stiletto and sprang forward with the sharp weapon raised. The first man to his way was Caldwell. The knife descended and caught the man under the left armpit, the point penetrating the heart, death being almost instantaneous. Scott ran to his companion's assistance. As he made a dash for the murderer the Italian caught Scott on the arm and cut an ugly gash. Then came another and another until five wounds had been inflicted and Scott fell bleeding. Angelo fled over the hills. Scott was taken to a house in the mining village and a doctor called. He stated that the man could not live, although he is still alive tonight.

The affray was not reported until this morning, when the sheriff and coroner were called. Witness say that Angelo claimed he had contributed 50 cents toward the purchase of the beer, and when it was tapped Caldwell and Scott would not give him his share and told him to leave the scene or they would give him a beating. Angelo's companions, Guissepo Ceuge and an unknown Italian, were accessories, according to the finding of the coroner.

The murderer made his way south and was pursued by a crowd of miners. Caldwell lived at Penn station, where he lesves a widow and one child. Scott is single and lives at Edna.

GREENSBURG, PA., Sept. 1.—(Special.)—Urged by a spirit of revenge and the assurance by the county commissioners that $500 will be paid for the murderer who killed Christ Caldwell of Penn station, a great crowd of American miners is hunting the country tonight for the Italian. With a bloodhound two Italians were traced to a point near Ten Miles, south of Webster. Sheriff Trescher has sent deputies to assist in the hunt, and to prevent, if possible, any attempt at lynching.

STONE TO MEET RAILROAD MEN ON THURSDAY

They Will Request Him to Take Measures to End Coal Strike.

THE EXTRA SESSION QUESTION IS OPEN

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 1.—Gov. Stone will be asked to publicly define his position on the coal strike when he returns from his trip to Pittsburgh. The state legislative board of railroad employes of Pennsylvania has appointed a committee to wait upon the governor and urge him to assist in the movement to adjust the differences between the miners and the operators.

The committee will request the executive to call an extra session of the general assembly to enact arbitration legislation to end the strike if it should be found that this is the method of last resort.

The committee was appointed at a meeting in this city today of the legislative board, and its members will remain in Harrisburg until the governor returns on Thursday. The committee consists of Benjamin Crager and George W. Coyle of Philadelphia, W. L. Plummer and William A. Boate of Pittsburgh, Jere N. Weller of Mauch Chunk and Milton T. Robinson of Harrisburg.

The board represents 128,000 railroad employes in Pennsylvania of the Brotherhoods of Locomotive Engineers, Firemen, Conductors, Telegraphers and Trainmen. The attendance at today's session, which was held behind closed doors, was much larger than that at the recent meeting at Reading.

The purpose of the meeting was to discuss what legislation is wanted by the railroad men from the next legislature, and to take an active part in the election of legislators whose records on labor questions justify the support of the railroaders. The record of every legislative candidate will be carefully scrutinized by a committee composed of Milton T. Robinson, Harrisburg; C. L. Schriver, McKees Rocks; George W. Coyle and S. W. Fuller, Philadelphia, and W. J. Zerbe, Mauch Chunk. This committee will publish the record of every candidate during the campaign and indicate those whom it is believed the railroaders should support.

GREATEST DAY FOR LABOR IN CITY'S HISTORY

Vice President Lewis of the Miners Called to Voters to Force Their Legislature to End the Strike.

COLUMN OF 11,000 MEN PARADED THROUGH RAIN

The Pittsburgh community made a deep bow to labor yesterday. The organized representatives of the men who create the wealth of the community had a kind of aristocracy government of their own. Browned and brawny workingmen were on the streets everywhere in holiday attire, usually something not very resplendent or costly, but bespeaking the trade in which they work.

The occasional rains which occurred during the day hardly interfered with the success of the event, the greatest of the kind which Pittsburgh ever saw. Eleven thousand men marched through the streets and the column broke up at Schenley park. Committeemen and speakers stepped to take lunch at the Hotel Schenley.

While it was a day of celebration for labor the gaiety was interrupted by a strong demand of Vice President Thomas L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers of America that the rights of the anthracite strikers be asserted through the people of the commonwealth. He called on the people to exercise their right to assemble the state legislature that it might demand a settlement of the strike.

The Rev. Dr. E. R. Donehoo of the West End Presbyterian church took occasion to denounce the recent utterances of the Reading railroad and coal interests in declaring that God in His infinite wisdom had given the operation of the properties to those now in charge.

Caused a Blockade.

While the rain was falling the movement to countermarch at the park created some confusion, many of the marchers breaking ranks and blockading those coming from the city. However, there was only a little confusion over this; nothing more. The sporting events were postponed till Saturday, when the end of the program will be carried out—with propitious weather. Yesterday was the third succeeding Labor day celebration in Pittsburgh when rain has interfered, but arrangements were so complete yesterday that the weather was hardly a drawback.

At 3:10 o'clock the speakers and the leading committeemen had arrived at the music pavilion near Panther Hollow, in Schenley park. The Knights of Pythias band had been entertaining the crowd, which was being depleted by the rain. George W. Miller, clerk of courts, and one of the leading representatives of the Order of Railroad Conductors in Pittsburgh, acting as chairman, introduced the Anthracite Miners' Glee club, which delighted the crowd by singing "Comrades in Arms," and then put it in good humor with a rendition of "Johnnie Smoker," replete with Pennsylvania "Dutch" dialect. Then Chairman Miller introduced Dr. J. Guy McCandless, director of the department of public works, for an address of welcome in behalf of the city. Dr. McCandless said:

Director McCandless' Greeting.

"God bless the man who first suggested Labor day, and I hope that it always will be observed as well as it has been today. Unfortunately, the elements are against us. Let us hope that in the future the sun will always shine on this day. The thousands of men who marched in our streets today should teach us what we may expect from organized labor."

The director extended a hearty welcome to the representatives of labor, declared that the park was not only open to them for all Labor days, but on any day, and urged that all make the park the place of a holiday at any time. "This park belongs to you; come and make yourselves welcome at all times," he said.

The Rev. Father A. A. Lambing followed with an interesting address. He remarked that the day before had been his labor day, and continued with an interesting address germane to the event and its relevancy in the sphere of God and man. He said that the greatest men of all ages began in what is wrongly called "the lower walks of life," that is as "laborers by the sweat of their brows."

"David," he said, "was a shepherd, and the Saviour was a carpenter and the son of a carpenter. The men who have made the history of our country are no exceptions. Many of them worked at trades and as day laborers. I myself began life as a laborer at eight years of age, and I am proud of the fact. It made a man of me. There should be no strife between capital and labor. Each is dependent upon the other, and fraternal charity should govern both in keeping out of warfare with one another. The first concern should be to save labor from the greed of selfish and narrow-minded owners of property and corporate interests. Christ's teachings and the golden rule should govern both sides in their dealings with disputed questions that arise."

Address of Rev. Donehoo.

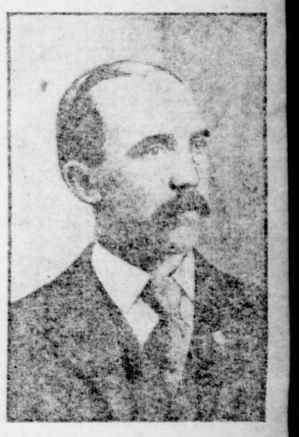
The Rev. Dr. E. R. Donehoo, in the course of his address, said:

Workmen and Fellow Citizens—In these days of gigantic trusts, when men have become accustomed to reckon values by the billion, when a mere millionaire is looked upon as a common-place individual, I esteem myself highly honored in being the guest of the most stupendous trust, as it is also the most venerable in point of years, on the face of the earth.

This is the labor trust's day, and you who are assembled are the worthy administrators of that division of this trust which has assigned to it as its field of operation this, the greatest of all the world's industrial centers. As I look into your inspiring faces I feel that I would utterly misapprehend the objects which have drawn you away from workshop and field and highway to observe this day, if I had imagined that you had assembled to discuss alleged grievances, or to wail and plead with your betters for recognition. As I understand the matter correctly, you are here to exhibit your just title to the privileges and immunities which of right belong to the most honorable, as it is the most ancient of all earth's aristocracies, the aristocracy of toil, peers amongst earth's proudest sons, every one of you a child of the Master Workman who planned and set in motion this mighty universe.

That distinguished ecclesiastic, the late Cardinal Manning, has defined labor to be "The honest exertion of the powers of mind and body for our own good, and the good of our neighbor." Thus mind and body are conjointly engaged in the performance of labor. If this be true, then we greatly err when we discriminate between a brain worker and a hand worker, as though hand work, no matter how simple it may be, could be performed without bringing the mind into action, when the plain truth is that all manual labor is the direct outcome of mental activity, whether it be the labor of the despised "Dago" with the pick and shovel, or the finished product of Murillo's pencil, or Angelo's chisel.

In the ancient Jewish world every youth was required to be master of a trade, and be able to earn an honest living by manual labor. But long before Moses, when man dwelt in Eden, labor was his appointed sphere, and for his highest good, both mentally and physically, and not a curse laid upon him for any wrong that he had done. The same Creator who made this heart of mine to drive the warm life blood coursing through my veins, and my lungs, to drink in the vitalizing principles in the atmosphere about me, in like manner made these hands for useful toil. By His decree labor was provided as a means for my physical development, and the man who refuses to employ the powers which God has bestowed upon



THOMAS L. LEWIS,

Be true to your calling, remember what Carlyle said of work: "Labor, wide as the earth, has its summit in heaven. Without labor there were no ease, no rest, so much as conceivable."

Address of Thomas L. Lewis.

Interest was intense and the applause deafening at times during the address of Thomas L. Lewis, national vice president of the United Mine Workers of America. In his even, yet positive way Mr. Lewis delivered himself of one of the most remarkable addresses ever issuing from the mouth of a labor leader. Mr. Lewis was called to the people of the state to force their legislature and demand an adjustment of the grievances of the anthracite strikers. He plead for arbitration. In his address he said:

"The product of this great Pittsburgh community enters into the great railroad which stretches across Siberia. It is its bridges that span the streams of India; in fact, the products of Western Pennsylvania, the leading iron and steel producer of the globe, are in every part of the civilized world. Wherever the products of this city are used the power and influence of the community are felt as a gigantic factor in the commercial and industrial world.

"Other cities may nominally be a larger business. This is not a community of money changers. Here money is exchanged for labor.

"The future welfare of Pittsburgh, and not only of Pittsburgh but the nation, depends not on how much money changes hands, but on whose hands that money goes into.

"Let us imagine that in a community as large as Pittsburgh every industry in and around it is forced to idleness. How long do you suppose that money would circulate in that community? How long would business progress? You can see that if the laborer is not prosperous, no one else can be.

The Anthracite Strike.

"A notable industrial contest is now raging in one part of this great state of Pennsylvania. It is not a contest between or of capital and labor. It is a contest of capital without labor, where the coal barons say, 'We will run our own business in our own way; we will not meet our employes; we will not listen to the business men of the country, nor to the governor of the commonwealth, nor will we listen even to the president of the nation.'

"I want to make no dark predictions, but give a little of your time to study the labor problem. Give a little of your time to find out if there is not a middle ground on which the representatives of capital and the representatives of labor may meet and adjust their differences. The anthracite coal operators, unfortunately, do not seem to understand this.

The Combinations.

"They say that no one shall interfere in their business and disagree with them. I disagree with every one of them who represents property interests when he takes the same position as the anthracite coal operators. You ask the reasons. The reasons are:

"Over in that anthracite region there are two combinations on one side and one on the other. The curious may ask, 'How would you make that out?'

"We hear much of the combination of labor. There is no such thing. We can not combine labor only so far as two, three or a half dozen or more can perform the same work. If a half dozen men were to get up in this audience that would be a labor exertion. If these same men walked up and together picked up this or that piece of furniture that would be combined labor, but as soon as that work is done the combination ceases to exist. We have, though, a combination of the representatives of labor, representing the men and women who toil and all members of a labor organization are a part of that combination of the representatives of labor. So it is that on the side of labor we have a single combination.

"How is it on the other side? They have two combinations. One is a combination of wealth, which is the result of labor, and a combination of the representatives of wealth. It is two-fold power. This, placed under the control of selfish, bad and unscrupulous men, may be used to the detriment of all, either directly or indirectly. It is a peculiar combination of interests.

Not Afraid of Trusts.

"I am not afraid of the combinations of capital. I am not afraid of all the trusts that may be born in this or any other country so long as those combinations are placed under the management of men of broad minds, industrious, reasoning men. But when these combinations pass into the control of a few individuals and they happen to be selfish men with contracted minds and with no regard for the rights of others, then it is in order to break that awful power and to do it, it is necessary for the laboring men to unite and declare, 'We are going to be the restraining factor to make you do what is right.'

"There is a solution for this question. There is a means of settling the anthracite strike. Our solution is to arbitrate the difficulty by impartial men. The arbitration principle is all right, but to put the machinery of arbitration in motion is another matter. How are we going to do it?

"The remedy is for the representatives of the people of Pennsylvania to assemble and annul the charters of these arbitrary operators if they will not enter arbitration or meet their employes.

"As long as the employer of labor will meet his employes to discuss their differences, I have no fears of a strike. If we could get employers of labor to understand that there must be a community of interests in order to have peace; that there must be a mutual feeling before they can get together; that there must be some honesty, some sincerity, some desire to respect the rights of each other; if we could do this I do not believe that the good people of Western Pennsylvania or the entire country would ever again see such an industrial contest as is now waging among the anthracite collieries."

Attorney John B. Stevenson, the next speaker, declared that after all the sermons it was quite proper to take up a collection. On this a substantial sum was realized for the striking anthracite miners.

ELEVEN THOUSAND MARCHERS IN LINE

Rain Failed to Prevent Parade—Prize for Best Appearance Won by the Structural Iron Workers.

The rain interfered very little with the great labor parade yesterday. The inclemency of the weather had, of course, some effect in the diminution of the number taking part, but it was not felt in any appreciable dampening of the enthusiasm which existed in the ranks. Though their uniforms were drenched and bedraggled, the 11,000 men trudged as manfully and gaily to Schenley park as if they were enjoying the brightest smile Old Sol has in his shop.

At the park and about the entrance was a scene of confusion, for as fast as the unions passed the reviewing stand they broke ranks and made haste to get out of the drizzling rain. The parade reviewed by the executive committee and the invited guests near the Panther Hollow bridge, and as the tired and wet marchers approached their lines were heartened and toned up by the division officer, and they passed amid the cheering crowds lined at that point.

The Bridge and Structural Iron Workers Local No. 3, with their 1,400 men, were received with great applause. They wore white duck trousers, blue shirts and pearl fedora hats. The tinners, engineers and horseshoers also received an ovation on account of their fine appearance.

It was nearly 2 o'clock before the last of the long line had reached the park, and the streets were thronged with those hurrying back to the town.

The prize for best appearance went to the structural iron workers. They had 2,200 men in line before the start and marched 1,400 of them past the judges at the entrance to the park. Altogether over 11,000 men marched over the route, the numbers being taken after the column was well in motion. The column was formed as follows:

LABOR DAY IN VALLEY.

Every Mill Except Those of Carnegie Company Was Closed Down.

Labor day was more generally observed in Homestead, Braddock and the Turtle Creek valley yesterday than in former years. Every mill, factory and workshop, with the exception of the Carnegie mills, was closed down for the day to enable the employes to participate in the big parade held in Pittsburgh.

Stores and business houses were closed the greater part of the day and the steam and trolley roads were crowded with people who went to Pittsburgh to view the parade or spend the day at the parks. Braddock and Homestead sent large delegations of workmen to the parade, and before boarding their trains they marched over the principal streets of the boroughs.

Turtle Creek, Wilmerding, East Pittsburgh and Pitcairn were nearly depopulated for the day, as nearly all the residents had gone with the Turtle Creek valley business men on their first annual boat excursion up the Monongahela river. The steamer Annie Roberts was chartered for the occasion and when it left the Ninth street, Braddock, landing, it was thronged to the guard rails with residents of the valley. The excursion is said to be the most successful that ever left Braddock.

SPORTS DECLARED OFF.

Rain Prevented This Feature of the Labor Day Celebration.

As the rain made the race track unfit for use, the athletic tournament which was to have been an interesting feature of the Labor day program in Schenley park was indefinitely postponed. At the time set for the tournament to begin scarcely a hundred people were on the track, and this number was made up principally of boys. No attempt was made to carry out any feature of the program.

There was no one about the track who could state officially just when the sports would be held. The program arranged was an interesting one, for which substantial prizes were to have been given.

TWENTY-ONE KILLED.

Train in Alabama Jumps Track and Four Coaches Roll Down High Embankment.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA., Sept. 1.—While rounding a curve on a high embankment near Berry, Ala., today, the engine and four cars of an excursion train on a branch of the Southern railway left the track and rolled over and over, smashing the coaches into kindling wood and causing the instant death of 21 persons and the injury of 31 others. Physicians say at least 29 of the injured cannot live.

With the exception of H. M. Dudley, trainmaster of the Southern railway, living in Birmingham, and Roscoe Shelby of Columbus, Miss., all of the dead and injured are negroes who had taken advantage of excursion rates from points in Mississippi to Birmingham.

When the wreck occurred the train was running 50 miles an hour. It had just started around a curve on top of a 60-foot embankment when the tender of the engine suddenly left the track, jerking the engine and the first four of the 10 cars from the track with it down the steep incline.

The cars, which were packed with passengers, turned completely over several times and were crushed like eggshells, killing and crippling the inmates. The dead bodies of the negroes were scattered in every direction, the piteous appeals of the wounded for help adding to the horrors of the situation.

As soon as the accident was reported wrecking trains carrying physicians were hurried from Columbus, Miss., and Birmingham.

Death from a Scare.

Cecelia Nershaller, aged 55, died in the McKeesport hospital yesterday afternoon. At the time of the Elks' carnival in McKeesport she was a lion tamer. On the day that the big lion, Wallace, attacked its keeper, Miss Nershaller became hysterical and since then had been in a highly nervous state. She was employed by the Westock company, but when the company left McKeesport with its show Miss Nershaller was left at the McKeesport hospital.

Bartender Gone, So Is Cash.

John Kolb, proprietor of the Avenue hotel, in Frankstown avenue, yesterday reported to No. 6 police station that his barkeeper, Mark Hanley, is missing, and that during Sunday night his cash register in the bar had been broken open and $30 in cash stolen. Hanley's trunk is missing from the hotel where he boarded. Kolb thinks Hanley broke open the cash register and stole the money.

Accused of Assaulting a Child.

White Mahon, a middle-aged man of McKeesport, was arrested last evening and brought to the Pittsburgh Central station. He is accused of assault on a girl 12 years old.

ROSES STREWN IN THE PATHWAY OF ROOSEVELT

NOW AT HOME OF MOODY

Today He Will Visit Last Resting Place of Great Evangelist—Addresses Boys of Mount Hermon School at East Northfield.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

East Northfield, Mass., Sept. 1.—President Roosevelt today concluded his tour through Vermont at Brattleboro and is spending the night here at Northfield. The reception accorded him at Brattleboro was among the prettiest, most well conducted and most enthusiastic he has received on his tour of New England. Upon arriving at the station he was met by a company of infantry headed by a band and escorted to the common, where he delivered a brief address, in which he spoke on Abraham Lincoln as the man of the hour in the great civil war.

He feelingly referred to the venerable ex-Gov. Holbrook, who was on the platform and who accompanied the president a short distance through the state, as being one of the few men who had received the distinction of being a war governor. The president's passage through Brattleboro was a continued ovation. On the line of march his carriage was stopped in front of the leading hotel, and from the balcony men, women and children showered rose flowers and bouquets upon him.

Carpet of Flowers.

Arriving at the common, where he delivered his address, the pavilion steps were strewn with flowers by little girls who were drawn up on both sides.

Labor Day was generally celebrated throughout the state, and wherever the train stopped holiday crowds were out to extend the president a welcome. The heat was excessive, but the president's remarks on the subject of labor were confined mostly to a tribute to the people of Vermont, and he expressed his pleasure at being greeted by the representatives of organized labor, because, he said, the typical American is the man who works.

The president began the day's journey at Burlington, reaching that city from Shelburne, the home of Dr. W. Seward Webb. After a drive about the city, the presidential train started southward, stops being made at Bergennes, Middlebury, Brandon, Proctor, Rutland, Ludlow, Bellows Falls, Chesterland and Brattleboro, and his Vermont trip was ended.

To Visit Shrine of Moody.

He crossed into Massachusetts in the early evening and went to Northfield to remain tonight as the guest of William R. Moody, son of the noted evangelist, Dwight L. Moody, at the Northfield hotel. The president will go to Round Top in the morning to visit Mr. Moody's grave.

The president spoke at every stop today, but most of his addresses were brief.

The president came directly from Brattleboro to the Mount Hermon school, being met at the station by W. R. Moody, head of the school, the Northfield selectmen and by Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, who came from Boston on the afternoon train. As soon as the party reached the Mount Hermon school the president held a short reception to the trustees of the school in the vestry of Moody Memorial chapel. When the president appeared in the audience room of the chapel he was greeted with prolonged cheers by the students.

Short Talk to Boys.

The president was, without doubt, pleased with his reception. In the course of his remarks he said: "I thing they teach here the essentials of good citizenship; that a man is no good who does not know how to work with his hands as well as with his head."

The students of the school sang, as he closed, the benediction, "The Lord Bless Thee and Keep Thee."

After he had finished the president was driven immediately to Northfield, where the party took dinner.

At 8:30 o'clock this evening the president spoke in the large Northfield auditorium, which was completely filled. In the large choir gallery were the Mount Hermon boys, and directly in front of the platform were the veterans of the civil war, while on the platform were Senator Lodge, the trustees of the Northfield schools and many citizens prominent in political life. Congressman Gillette presided.

At the close of his address the president was presented with a large bouquet by the local Grand Army post.

The presidential party was then escorted to the Hotel Northfield, where they are to pass the night.

STONE TO MEET RAILROAD MEN ON THURSDAY

latter for its failure to enact labor legislation, indorsing the candidacy of ex-Gov. Pattison and advocating his election as governor, were adopted at tonight's session. A committee, composed of Thomas T. Sheridan of Conemaugh; P. O. Garahan, C. G. Bowman, S. W. Hiller and Byran G. Augstin of Philadelphia was appointed to wait upon Mr. Pattison at Reading Thursday and notify him of the board's action. None of the other state candidates was indorsed.

The board will meet again tomorrow, when it is expected some action will be taken on Gen. Gobin's order to shoot strikers and arrest women and children who insult the troops on duty in the strike region.

Gov. Stone, who is here visiting his son, says he has appointed a meeting with the railroad men in Harrisburg at noon Thursday. He declines to say what he will do about calling an extra session, until after he has heard the reasons for it from the members of this committee.

HUFF NAMES CONFEREES.

Westmoreland County Men Are Selected for the Congressional Conference.

GREENSBURG, PA., Sept. 1.—(Special.)—Col. George F. Huff this evening, in accordance with his declaration a few days ago, to proceed with the work outlined by the Butler-Westmoreland congressional conferees at Pittsburgh, named this county's eight conferees. They are D. C. Ogden, County Chairman Edward B. McCormick, Former County Chairman Robert A. Rankin, Dr. R. B. Hanmer, W. C. Peoples, H. F. Bovard, John M. Boucher and John M. Jamison.

The principals, Col. Huff and Congressman Showalter, had 10 days in which to act, as the nominating convention is to be held within that time. Should Showalter not appoint his three conferees, and pay no heed to Chairman Quay's order and date of meeting, then the Westmoreland conferees will name the nominee.

The conferees named by Col. Huff are nearly all old personal and political friends of his.

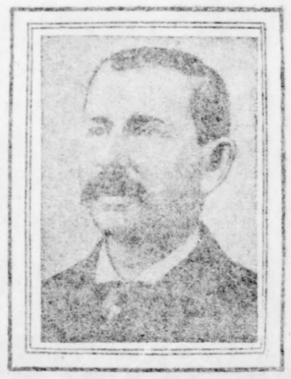
The Baltimore & Ohio Loses Superintendent of Motive Power.



W. S. Haines, for three years superintendent of motive power on the western divisions of the Baltimore & Ohio system, yesterday retired from that position and was succeeded by Alexander Kearney, superintendent of motive power on the Philadelphia, Wilmington & Baltimore division of the Pennsylvania railroad.

Mr. Haines has had his headquarters at Pittsburgh only since June 1. At that time the office was removed to this city from Newark, O. He has risen to the position from the cab, having been in the railroad service since 1869. He came to the Baltimore & Ohio during the regime of Frederick D. Underwood, second vice president and general manager. Like Mr. Underwood, he was an old "Soo Line" man.

PHILADELPHIANS HELP MITCHELL IN HIS BATTLE

Appeal for Aid for Striking Miners Finds Hearts of Labor Day Crrowd.

PICNIC BRINGS $10,000

Two Stirring Speeches Made by the Leader of Anthracite Men in the Greatest Struggle of Wage-Earners in History.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 1.—The organized workers of Philadelphia today paid their tribute to John Mitchell, president of the United Mine Workers of America, and at the same time showed their sympathy in a substantial way for the striking anthracite mine workers of Pennsylvania.

The presence of the miners' chief was made the occasion of probably the greatest demonstration that organized labor has ever held on "Labor Day." In the forenoon a parade was held under the auspices of the Central Labor union, in which nearly all the trades of the city were represented. It is estimated that more than 10,000 men were in line. President Mitchell rode at the head of the procession, and his reception along the route of the parade was enthusiastic. Twelve miners dressed in their greasy overalls and blouses acted as an escort.

After the parade a big picnic was held at Washington park, on the New Jersey side of the Delaware river, a few miles below this city. There were probably 40,000 persons in attendance. Here Mr. Mitchell made two addresses. His principal speech was made in the grove, where between 4,000 and 5,000 listened and cheered the strikers' leader. Mr. Mitchell said:

Hosts of Labor Assemble.

"This day has been decreed as labor's special holiday, and from one end of the country to the other the great hosts of labor have assembled and are reviewing the struggles of the past and preparing for the struggles of the future. The year that has just closed has been unprecedented in the growth of the trades union movement and the growth of independent thought and independent action; but with the great growth of the trades union movement new problems have arisen that will tax our greatest strength to solve. We have this year government by injunction and ownership by divine right in their most accentuated form.

"If one of the most conspicuous of the capitalists of our country properly represents the sentiment and feeling of his associates, then we must take it for granted that they believe that God in His infinite wisdom has given into their control all the resources of our country. I was taught to believe when a boy that God loved all His people alike. I was taught to believe that He conferred no more power or favors upon one than upon another; and notwithstanding the declaration of the controllers of trusts, I am not prepared to abandon the teachings of my boyhood days.

Life and Death Battle.

"Every year sees some struggle of the workers that stands out more conspicuously than other struggles. This year it happens that the coal miners of Pennsylvania are engaged in a life and death struggle for the right to live. The struggle of the coal miners of Pennsylvania is not only the greatest contest between capital and labor in the history of the world because of its magnitude, but it stands out in bold relief as the greatest struggle because of the issues involved. The miners of Pennsylvania are fighting for rights granted them by the laws of our country and as exercised by their employers. The coal miners of Pennsylvania are engaged in a life and death struggle trying to secure sufficient to take their little boys and little girls of tender age and frail physique from the mines and the mills and send them to school, where, as American citizens, they properly belong. Had the coal trust known four months ago that it would have to fight the American people before it could crush the Pennsylvania miners it would never have engaged in the fight.

Faith in Countrymen.

"I have an abiding faith in my countrymen. I have sublime confidence in the American people. I believe that once the American people believe a wrong is being perpetuated their great heart will go out in sympathy and that they will see that the wrong is righted. If my reception in Philadelphia, if my reception here, is representative of the sentiment prevailing throughout this country, I believe this then, my friends, the coal miners cannot lose. I am not one of those who believe that the loss of the miners' strike would mean the destruction of the trades union movement, but I do believe that the destruction of the miners' union would give the trades union movement the most severe shock it has received for many years.

"Ladies and gentlemen, I am one who believes that the time is not far distant when the workingman will have to solve the labor problem. I am free to say that my own views have been somewhat changed since this strike started. Nearly all well-informed workers know that I had identified myself with every peace movement that I thought would help the workers. I am not prepared to say that they are failures, but they are failures as long as employers will not listen to reason and to truth. I look forward to the time when all wage-earners will take their proper places in this movement.

Justice for the Worker.

"I look forward to the time when those who build the mansions will not have to live in hovels. I look forward to the time when the men who build the lightning express and the men who build the beautiful palace cars will not have to walk from station to station looking for work. I look forward to the time when those whose labor builds beautiful edifices whose spires point heavenward will not have to walk past them, too ragged to enter. I stand for the solidarity of the trade union movement. I hope to see the time when no man who earns his bread by the sweat of his brow will be outside the ranks of his trade union. I look forward to the time when the workers of our country will take possession of their own country."

Mr. Mitchell's second speech was confined to an appeal for aid. Among the other speakers at the two meetings was M. M. Dolphin of New York, formerly national president of the Railway telegraphers union. The entire proceeds of the picnic, estimated at $10,000, will be turned over the the miners' union.

MANY THOUSANDS IN LABOR PARADES

NEARBY TOWNS JOINED IN THE GENERAL CELEBRATION.

Marvin Float Was Taken from Procession at New Castle, but Union Men Claim That Outside Disturbers Were Responsible for the Affair.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW CASTLE, PA., Sept. 1.—The Labor Day demonstration here was one of the largest ever witnessed in the city. Several hundred wage earners from Sharon and Youngstown participated. The single sensational feature of the demonstration was the forcing of the wagon float of Marvin of Pittsburgh from the line. It is said that some of the marchers objected to the appearance of the Marvin float on account of the alleged connection of that firm with a combine. Many of the union men denounced the act and attributed it to disturbers from other places.

BLOODY FIGHT OVER UNDERTAKER'S BILL

Father of a Dead Baby Received a Terrible Beating With an Indian Club.

A dead baby, just placed in its white casket, was the indirect cause of its father, Stanl Stufcolic, receiving a terrible beating yesterday afternoon at the hands of the undertaker, Martin Pfeifer, and another Pole. The timely arrival of Lieut. Joseph Johnston of No. 7 engine company, at the livery barn where the fight was going on, saved Stufcolic from even worse treatment, as his antagonists were choking him and using an Indian club on his head when the fireman rescued him.

Stufcolic lives at the corner of Thirty-fifth street and Mulberry alley. His baby died and Pfeifer, who lives at No. 2740 Penn avenue and has a livery and undertaking establishment on Penn avenue, near Twenty-third street, was called in to prepare for the burial. Yesterday afternoon the undertaker called at the house and placed the infant's body in a casket. After doing this he drove with the father to his livery stable. On the way to the stable they drank considerable and when they reached there a dispute arose over the payment of $75 for the funeral expenses.

Stufcolic claims the undertaker demanded the money and he replied that it had been paid on the way to the stable. The undertaker disputed this and Stufcolic in his statement to the police said he was then attacked by the former and Stanl Laugkufsky, a Pole who was in the stable at the time. With two men against him he fought his best to defend himself, but with little success. His cries for help attracted the fireman, who ran to his assistance and separated the men. All the men were arrested and locked up in No. 3 police station, charged with disorderly conduct. Stufcolic claims he was drugged by the others.

Young Bride Sued Her Husband.

Samuel Myers, aged 76, who lives at the corner of Dixon street and Brereton avenue, was arrested yesterday on a warrant charging him with disorderly conduct and released on a deposit. The information was made by his wife, who is only 16 years old and is the result of what seems an unhappy wedded life of six months.

Sousa's famous new march, "Imperial Edward," dedicated by special permission to the king of England, will be heard at the New Exposition tomorrow night.

HE BARRICADED THE HOUSE AND DEFIED POLICE

E. S. Brown Tried to Murder His Wife and Shoot Policeman John Tobin.

REVOLVER MISSED FIRE

Locked the Doors and Windows of His House and Was Captured Only Through a Ruse—A Companion Was Also Arrested.

E. S. Brown, a painter, residing at No. 108 Washington street, yesterday tried to murder his wife and shoot a policeman. Then he barricaded himself in his house and kept a squad of police at bay for nearly an hour. He was finally captured by a flank movement executed by a quick-witted policeman and placed under arrest, along with a companion who had assisted him in his defense.

Brown returned home drunk about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon and began quarreling with his wife. He picked up a heavy door holder and struck her on the head, knocking her down. He continued the assault by choking her until she was nearly unconscious. Mrs. Brown screamed for assistance. Brown rushed into the dining room where he kept his revolver, saying that he would get it and "finish the job." Mrs. Brown managed to stagger out onto the pavement as her husband appeared in the doorway with the revolver in his hand.

Policeman John Tobin, who had been attracted by the noise, ran across the street with drawn revolver and commanded Brown to throw up his hands and drop his gun. Instead of complying, Brown pointed his revolver in the officer's face and pulled the trigger. The cartridge failed to explode, however, and before Tobin could fire at him Brown had backed through the doorway and slammed and locked the door.

Once inside, Brown locked all the doors and windows and then taking a stand at one of the second story windows cursed the officer and defied him to arrest him. Brandishing the revolver all the time, Policeman Tobin sent for reinforcements to surround the house and a squad of policemen were soon on the scene. No entrance could be gained to the house, although all kinds of ruses to throw Brown off his guard were tried. Finally one of the officers engaged Brown in conversation and Policeman Tobin went to the rear and by prying open a window gained the inside of the house. He went quietly upstairs to the room in which Brown had taken his stand and caught the latter from behind and after a fight handcuffed him. In one of the rooms in the house Ray McGough was found and arrested. It was alleged that he had aided Brown in barricading the house. Both prisoners were locked up in the Center avenue police station.

WITH NOISE AND FUN HOMEWOOD CARNIVAL OPENS

Hundreds of Maskers Paraded the East End Streets Last Night.

BEAUTIFUL DECORATIONS

A Salute of Nine Bombs Was the Signal for Opening the Mardi Gras—The Midway Replete With Many Novel Attractions.

With a grand salute of nine bombs, with the playing of bands, with flags flying and the cheering of hundreds of fantastically gowned young folks, Pittsburgh's first Mardi Gras was opened promptly at 8:30 last night in the grounds at Hamilton avenue and Kelly street. At least 5,000 citizens of Homewood, Brushton and Wilkinsburg and the East End were there to help make the opening a success. That the grounds were damp did not seem to make any difference. The crowd was out for a good time, and they had it.

At 6 o'clock the grand pageant of maskers left Thomas street for the purpose of giving the citizens some idea of what they were to expect at the grounds. The parade was led by the Homestead band; next came the Washington Infantry and Imperial sabers, followed by a multitude of grotesque figures, masked or with faces painted and arrayed in every conceivable garb. Carrie Nation in bloomers, and George Washington in white duck were there as well as numerous Indians, black-face comedians, clowns and Santa Clauses without number. Behind these came more than 100 wagons and floats of the various East End business men. The drivers and occupants of the floats were as grotesquely garbed as the marchers.

JOHN A. HARBAUGH,
General Manager of the Carnival.

Beautiful Decorations.

All along the route of the parade beautiful decorations had been put up and everywhere the streets were crowded with sight-seers. The route was from Thomas street and Homewood avenue to Susquehanna street, to Brushton avenue, to Frankstown avenue, to Lowell street, to Mayflower street, to Station street, to Highland avenue, to Kelly street and thus to the grounds, where the entrance under the grand arch in Hamilton avenue at Collier street was made.

It was exactly 8:30 when the grand entrance was made.

Already 3,000 people were on the grounds and almost as many more came with the pageant. After marching around the grounds, which covers two complete blocks, the marchers stopped at the band stand, from which John A. Harbaugh, president of the Homewood board of trade, in a neat speech, formally declared the carnival open.

Mr. Harbaugh spoke only a few moments. He touched lightly on the rapid growth of the Homewood district, and told of the organization and work of its board of trade. He said that the board had been particularly careful to make the Mardi Gras free from all vulgarity, and he thought they had succeeded.

As soon as he had finished, the signal was given and the grand salute of nine bombs was set off. This was followed by an immense rocket, the signal that the carnival was open. At once there arose from all parts of the grounds such a noise as quiet Hamilton avenue had never heard before. The people seemed to vie with one another to see who could make the most noise, and for five minutes it was deafening. Megaphones were used, whistles were blown, the bands played, the midway shows all began at once to call forth their attractions and everybody yelled at the top of their voices.

The Maskers Had Fun.

The fun and frolic which followed was perhaps not quite so carefree and boisterous as at the opening of the far-famed Mardi Gras of New Orleans, but the young folks had a good time just the same. Hither and thither the masked paraders went, chaffing one another, and in every way showing that for the time they had thrown aside the rules of conventionality.

The grounds presented a brilliant aspect. Lighted with thousands of electric bulbs and arc lights, and arrayed in miles and miles of gay bunting of every hue, it is really something worth seeing. Along the Hamilton avenue side are 50 booths where refreshments of every kind are to be had. These are for the most part put up by the business men of Homewood, and all present a gay appearance.

Among them is the "kountry store," operated by the board of trade, where every article costs 10 cents. Here you pay your dime and then breathlessly await the result. You may be given a sack of flour or perhaps you only get a pair of 10-penny nails. Everything is kept in stock, from side combs to bird cages. Another stand, also run by the board of trade, is shrouded in mystery. Outside a big curtain, decorated in grotesque figures and bearing the legend, "Where is 49?" is all the novice can gather, unless he ventures inside. When once within the curtain entrance, he thinks he has certainly lighted upon a place not countenanced by the police forces. Here are piled casks and bottles of every description, and a stein is handed the newcomer, as he is stealthily pushed into a dark corner. When he puts it to his lips he is disgusted to find, instead of a thirst-quenching beverage, that he has been given a glass of the sourest of vinegar. But the merry-makers did not seem to mind. One and all, they went out and gathered up their friends, and put them through the performance.

Farce on Every Hand.

It is the same everywhere. Farce is on every hand, and the way those people enjoy it! Even the business office bears signs of it. Over the door are these words, "Say it, but cut it short." Inside one reads, "This is where we do business, but our time is precious." At the "kountry store" such signs as "I'm busy, ask the other clerk," "No goods delivered, tie up your own bundles" and "Mr. Si Frosh will trade a pair of second-hand heifers for a 3-year-old plow," are to be seen.

The midway, which stretches all the way along the other side of the inclosure, promises to be a success in every way. There are 16 shows in all, and no two of them have any resemblance to each other. The German village, at the lower end, occupies a large tent, but is not what the word usually implies. Next to this can be seen "the only human fish ever captured alive." At the old plantation a troupe of negro minstrels hold forth to the glee of all the youngsters, and at the "Varsity club are to be seen feats of legerdemain that rival Kellar.

"Buried alive" is the startling announcement that greets the eye at the next tent, and here, six feet beneath the sod, can be seen a man, lying in a coffin. A resident of Homewood has promised to allow himself to be buried today, and says he will remain in the grave from morning until night. A Philippine village, in charge of veterans of the Spanish-American war, where all kinds of relics are shown, is another of the attractions. "The statue turned to life," the "Hoot Mon" and a gypsy village make up the remainder of the midway.

Midway Attractions.

At one end of the grounds Lotto, the high diver, will daily make a leap of

J. SCOTT MORGAN,
Secretary Finance Committee.

75 feet into a net below, while at the other end Mons. Lavelle will perform on a tight wire, high above the heads of the multitude.

The police arrangements at the grounds are perfect. Inspector Robert Gray has a corps of men on the grounds, but they are under special instructions not to interfere with the merry-making.

This afternoon will be school children's day, and all the pupils of the Twenty-first, Twenty-second and Thirty-third wards will be admitted to the grounds free. On Thursday evening there will be a public marriage, and the household goods, which are to be given to the lucky pair, are on exhibition. Their names will not be divulged until the ceremony commences, and every one in the East End is wondering who the bride is to be.

The Mardi Gras is to last all week, and Saturday night the winner of the pony and runabout will be announced. With each admission ticket a chance on this outfit is given, and all the little folks are hoping they will be the lucky one.

AMERICANS PATIENT TOWARD FILIPINOS

German Writer Says No Other Nation Would Have Fought With Such Humanity.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

BERLIN, Sept. 1.—A correspondent of the Frankfurter Zeitung, writing from Manila, replies to the charges of cruelty on the part of the American army appearing in European newspapers. He says:

"Perhaps no other nation except the United States would have had the patience to meet the stubborn resistance of the Filipinos in Samar for two long years with such humanity as, upon the whole, has been the case. It is not to be wondered at that the American leaders finally let their gall run over at the treacherous tricks played upon them and adopted sharper measures. Of course, some excesses occurred, but it is highly inadmissible to select these few cases and serve them to the public as typical of American war-making."

The correspondent also emphasizes the injustice of expecting Americans to observe in every case the rules of civilized warfare while fighting such a foe.

The writer praises the political shrewdness, combined with moderation, of making surrendered insurgent officers governors of provinces.

HONEYMOON INTERRUPTED.

Colored Bride and Groom Aroused the Suspicion of Detectives.

The honeymoon of Richard De Bow and his wife Jessie was rudely interrupted yesterday when the couple were arrested by Detectives William Elmore and Charles McGovern and taken to the Central police station. Upon their arrival there they were immediately discharged, having satisfactorily explained their appearance in this city.

De Bow is from St. Louis, and last Monday he met Jessie Broderick in Bradford, Pa., and on Friday they were married. They came to Pittsburgh yesterday morning and were going to St. Louis last night, when they were picked up by the detectives in Wylie avenue for acting in a suspicious manner. The groom showed the detectives the tickets he had bought to take his bride home and they were immediately released. Both are colored.

PIANOS FOR THE CHILDREN

It will interest prospective purchasers to learn that this is a particularly opportune time to buy a piano. Hamilton's magnificent fall stock has just been received, and is now on display. It is a truly splendid assemblage, representing in its 25 or 30 lines all that is best in the art of piano-making, and offering the widest possible range of selection.

The time is opportune, because the children are now home from their vacations and are about to resume their interrupted studies. Aside from this reason prices are made particularly attractive at this popular and old reliable music house.

It is only natural that prices should be somewhat stiffer in the very busy season. Therefore those who wish to obtain the double advantage of a larger selection and most moderate prices should buy without delay.

By taking advantage of this opportunity you can buy a splendid new upright piano for $200 up, and you can make your selection from a complete stock of the most desirable instruments made.

Parents who wish to procure a good piano for practice purposes for the children will be interested to learn that we still have a number of used and second-hand pianos of good, standard makes, which we are offering at about one-half what they cost. Some of these we have taken in exchange within the past few days and they had been used only a few weeks. So they are quite as good as new.

It will, of course, be necessary to act promptly in order to secure the benefit of these bargains.

If you cannot call, write for particulars, which will be sent you promptly.

S. HAMILTON
Hamilton Building,
335 and 337 Fifth Avenue, Pittsburgh.

MACKRELL HAS RESIGNED HIS COUNTY OFFICE

FLINN BACK IN POLITICS

The Ex-Senator Issues a Statement Indorsing the Grimes Party—Plan to Change Republican Rules to Shut Out the Citizens.

Archibald Mackrell has resigned as deputy register of Allegheny county. He has given up the office so he can devote all of his time to his candidacy for sheriff on the old organization ticket.

Mackrell yesterday tendered his resignation to Register Fred W. Edwards. It was accepted and Mackrell is now off the county payroll. He says that he quit so that all of his time could be devoted to the campaign. "Mr. Edwards is a candidate for re-election, and I am the nominee for sheriff," said he, "and both of us cannot be away from the office at the same time. I considered that it was my place to step out, so that the register would be free to appoint a deputy who can devote his whole attention to the duties of the office. I will now give my whole attention to heart-to-heart talks with the Republicans of the county, and I am satisfied that I will be elected sheriff. William McCullough of Avalon, the present chief clerk of the office, will succeed me as deputy register."

Flinn's Return to Politics.

Politicians generally were greatly surprised yesterday to read ex-Senator William Flinn's carefully prepared statement indorsing the Grimes Water Company party. It was not pleasing to the machine candidates, for the statement means a new burden. As in the case of the South Side water, Flinn could not be made a real live issue, so long as he refrained from discussing politics and kept from showing his hand in the management of the machine. Now that he has gone on record as favorable to the Grimes annex to the machine, he has stepped into the open and the old organization will have to carry the load. One of the odd things about the Flinn statement is that it was prepared previous to the formal announcement by Grimes that he was a reformer.

The machine candidates were perfectly content to have Flinn keep under cover and furnish brain and money, but they did not want him to declare practically that the Grimes party is the party of the Sixth avenue organization. It makes the task of fooling the people all the more difficult.

Hoped to Scare Quay.

The machine hoped that the announcement of the formation of the Grimes party would scare Chairman M. S. Quay of the Republican state committee and have him pass a resolution at the meeting of the state committee Wednesday prohibiting Pennypacker from accepting the indorsement of the Citizens party. That was the reason Grimes issued the long statement denouncing the Republican organization, and Quay in particular. It was also the cause of the interview yesterday with Recorder J. O. Brown, in which he pointed out alleged dangers to the party if Pennypacker was indorsed. The machine men admit that the scheme has not worked and Quay will not interfere in the Citizens indorsement.

Recorder J. O. Brown says that he is opposed to the indorsement, believing that the Republicans should make their fight in the party column. He claims to know nothing about the Grimes party, but adds that if Pennypacker is to remain on the Citizens ticket he is in favor of the organization candidates getting into as many columns as they can.

Will Change the Rules.

Machine leaders say that it is the intention to change the rules so as to shut out from participation in the Republican primaries the Republicans who voted the Citizens ticket. At the recent meeting of the county committee a resolution was adopted authorizing a revision of the rules. After the fall election a committee will be appointed to go to work under this blanket-like resolution.

The organization of the Grimes party and the indorsement of Pennypacker by the Citizens has caused the machine to change its plans on the rules question. At present a Republican can vote in the primaries who voted his state ticket at the previous state election. Under this provision the Citizens could not be barred, as Pennypacker is on that ticket. It had been intended to change the rule to make it read "state and county ticket." The Grimes party has made this switch impossible. Pattison is to head this muddy water column, and the machine men who are to do the trading with the Democrats would be barred. It has about been decided to limit participants in the Republican primaries to those who voted the Republican ticket at the last municipal and county elections.

Get on the Register's List.

Today and tomorrow are the last days for registering in order to secure a vote at the fall election. If an elector is not registered he cannot secure a tax receipt, and without the latter he is prevented from voting. It is the duty of the assessors to be at the polling places in the county from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m., and from 6 p. m. to 9 p. m. both days. If they fail to comply with this law they are liable to arrest. The Citizens will have watchers at each polling place to see that the assessor does his duty.

The formality of announcing the delegates to the Union party convention in Philadelphia tomorrow will be gone through this evening at the office of Harry S. Paul. The men have been slated for several days. Ex-Senator William Flinn is credited with having placed his name on the list. The delegation will leave for Philadelphia on the 9 o'clock train.

The formal opening of the John Dalzell Republican club of Braddock occurred last evening. Speeches were made by Register F. W. Edwards, Arch Mackrell, candidate for sheriff, and R. B. Scandrett. There was a large crowd present.

There will be a Citizens party meeting in Kenyons hall, Allegheny, Friday evening. Several speeches will be made, and then the audience will be given an opportunity to meet the candidates.

Among the Humors of the Campaign.

EVENTFUL WEEK OF CAMPAIGNING IN THIS STATE

Republican Committee and Union Party Convention Due Tomorrow.

SPECULATION ON RESULT

The New Organization Expected to Indorse Pattison — Democratic Nominees to Be Notified Thursday. Gossip on Extra Session.

By CHESTER D. POTTER,
Staff Correspondent.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 1.—This is to be a week of features in the state campaign. There will be two important events Wednesday—meeting of the Republican state committee and of the Union party convention. On Thursday at Reading the nominees on the Democratic state ticket will be officially "notified" that they are running.

Interwoven with the program actual, there is much in the way of speculation, and not the least interesting is the rumored intention of Gov. Stone to call a special session of the legislature to enact a compulsory arbitration bill. The Gazette correspondent was informed today by competent authority that there is no probability of an extra session; that Gov. Stone realizes that an act of this character would not be constitutional, hence not legally binding, and that he will not invite personal criticism by lending his assistance to such a proceeding.

"Compulsory arbitration" in this instance would be only effective in a moral sense, and if that phase of the matter does not now appeal to the mine owners it would not, it is said, gather force by legislative sanction.

It is possible that the Republican state committee may adopt the resolution, said to have been approved by Recorder J. O. Brown, to be presented by the Allegheny county delegation. Some amendments would be necessary, however, and it is a question whether the delegation would consent to the necessary changes.

Republican managers expect the so-called Union party convention, if it is run on the program arranged by Col. Guffey, chairman Ritter and John Wanamaker, to be nothing but an auxiliary of the Democratic state convention, a second gathering, as it were, of the Democratic clans. Judging results by the financial investments said to have been made by Democratic financiers, they do not see how it will be possible for the convention to avoid giving Pattison an indorsement without violating an agreement which, because of the "consideration," ought to be binding.

Nothing can prevent a fulfillment of this prediction except the unexpected event of the real Union party delegates securing credentials and being allowed to vote as they desire. The plan fixed is to bar all Union delegates except those who have arranged to follow the instructions of Chairman Ritter and substitute Democrats who are to be imported for the occasion. Trouble is expected.

Insurance Commissioner J. L. W. Durham is hurrying home from Colorado and if he does not miss connections he probably will arrive by Wednesday morning. Councilman Charles Segur, Mr. Durham's right hand man, informed me today that the commissioner is in fine physical form and that his only grievance is that he has added 10 pounds to his weight since leaving Philadelphia. Mr. Segur was much interested in the "ballot reform party."

"You may quote me as being heartily in favor of real ballot reform," he said, "and I would be pleased to have Gov. Stone call a special session of the legislature to repeal the present Baker ballot law. I favor the old plan of vest-pocket voting. It was easier, more satisfactory and less cheating was possible."

Flower Statue Unveiled.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Sept. 1.—A statue of the late ex-Gov. Roswell P. Flower was unveiled here today in the presence of thousands of people. David B. Hill delivered the principal address, in which he reviewed Gov. Flower's career, paying an eloquent tribute to his memory. Senator Spooner of Wisconsin also spoke. The statue was erected by popular subscription.

Six Politicians Wounded.

SAN JUAN, PORTO RICO, Sept. 1.—At Cayey yesterday evening there was a conflict between persons attending meetings of Federals and Republicans, during which six men, including a police captain, were wounded. The fighting was caused by a strictly political dispute.

DENIAL IS MADE OF JURISDICTION OF STATE LAWS

Northern Securities Company Files Its Answer in Cases Brought in Minnesota.

COMPETITION GOING ON

Control of Northern Pacific and Great Northern Roads Makes No Difference in Their Management—Question of Land Grants Argued.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 1.—The answer of the Northern Securities Company and President J. J. Hill in the suit in the United States court to prevent the consolidation of the Northern Pacific and Great Northern Railway companies was filed in court in this city this afternoon. It is a general denial of the complaint.

Defendants deny that the Northern Securities Company has ever conducted any business in Minnesota or had any place of business, or owned any property in the state, and the railways, the property of the Eastern Railway Company of Minnesota, are operated by virtue of a lease to the Great Northern Railway Company. They also deny that James J. Hill has ever been in control of a majority of the capital stock of the Great Northern company.

They deny that the Northern Pacific Railway Company ever became a corporation within the state of Minnesota, or that it ever became subject to the laws thereof, except by filing a copy of its articles with the secretary of state.

No Change in Control.

They also deny that the Northern Pacific Company's lines have since the organization of the Securities Company been operated subject to the control of the officers of that company, and deny that the board of directors of the Northern Pacific Company, when the bill was filed, or at any time since, have been the persons stated in said bill.

They admit that cities and towns named in the bill are points on each of the two lines of railway, but deny that the lines between these points are parallel, or that the lines competed for passengers or freight by any greater extent prior to the formation of the Securities Company than they have at all times done since. They deny that the line of the defendant companies between the state of Minnesota and Puget Sound were or are parallel, or have ever been competing lines, except at a few points.

Not Only Pacific Lines.

They deny that these lines are the only lines crossing the state of Minnesota and connecting the Pacific ocean by rail with points in said state, or that they are the only lines connecting the territory of northern tier of states or the territory tributary thereto by rail with the Pacific ocean.

They deny that any of the matters alleged in the bill have prevented or hindered or will prevent or hinder the construction by the state or by any one authorized by the plaintiff of railroads that the state may deem necessary to bring its swamp lands into market and secure their settlement and occupation.

They say that except the grants of swamp lands, the grants by the state in aid of railways in Minnesota were made by Minnesota merely in execution of trusts reposed by acts of congress granting lands of the United States to aid in the construction of such railways.

None of such grants, nor either of said swamp land grants was a gift to the company receiving the same, but each was made upon a valuable and full consideration.

Competition Never Sharper.

They deny that competition between the defendant companies for traffic was, prior to the organization of the securities company, any sharper or more productive of lower rates than it has been at all times since such organization, and deny that such rates have been at any time since the organization of the Securities company, or will be any higher than if said company had not been formed.

On the contrary, they say that since the formation of said company such rates have already been largely reduced and will continue to be lower than those stated in the bill to have been secured by the sharp and active competition therein alleged.

They admit the organization of the Securities company and that it was organized for the purposes set forth in its articles and for no other purposes whatever. They admit that after the formation of the Securities company, and on November 22, 1901, that company did request of the Great Northern company to purchase such of their shares as should be offered within 60 days from the date at $180 a share and pay therefor in shares of its own capital stock at par. Except as aforesaid, they say that the Securities company has not offered or sought to purchase any stock of either said railway companies in exchange for its own shares. They say that the Securities company has also purchased for cash a large amount of the shares of the defendant railway companies and of other companies.

They deny that James J. Hill was at any time the principal or controlling stockholder of the Great Northern company and say that while said James J. Hill was for a short time nominally a director of the Northern Pacific company he never cast any vote as such. The defendants deny all unlawful combination and confederacy.

The management of the New Exposition will be sorely disappointed if 25,000 visitors do not attend the opening tomorrow night.

CHIEF THOUGHT OF WORKINGMEN IS FOR STRIKERS

Labor Day Parades Take Up Collections to Aid Anthracite Miners.

BIG CROWDS EVERYWHERE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

Chicago, Sept. 1.—The plants of nearly every industry represented in over 300 local labor unions, as well as all banks, the stock exchange and board of trade were closed today while organized labor celebrated its annual holiday. During the morning hours a great throng of workingmen passed in review through the downtown streets. A novel feature of this parade was a contribution of money for the striking anthracite miners thrown into a number of outstretched American flags borne along the route by several of the unions. In the afternoon picnics were held at many of the adjacent parks where addresses on labor questions were made by prominent speakers, including Senator W. E. Mason.

LINCOLN, NEB., Sept. 1.—Labor Day had its first general observance here today since the inauguration of the holiday. There was a parade of uniformed trades unionists, followed by speaking and amusements at the park. W. J. Bryan was the principal orator.

Senator Fairbanks Speaks.

KANSAS CITY, MO., Sept. 1.—Ten thousand union workmen in the trades of both Kansas Citys paraded the downtown streets here this forenoon. Heading the procession were a number of carriages bearing city officials and the speakers of the day, chief among them being Senator Charles W. Fairbanks of Indiana.

DENVER, COL., Sept. 1.—A unique feature of the Labor Day parade in this city was a wagon suitably decorated, in which men received contributions of people along the line of march for the relief of the anthracite coal strikers of Pennsylvania.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 1.—President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor today reviewed an immense parade of organized labor. It was the first celebration under the law making the first Monday in September Labor Day.

HARRISBURG, PA., Sept. 1.—For the first time in over 10 years the organized workmen of Harrisburg celebrated Labor Day today. In the afternoon there was speaking at Reservoir park. Among those who made addresses were Edward A. Moffit of New York city; Joseph B. Yeager, Grand Chief Carman of the Brotherhood of Railroad Carmen of America, and W. F. Burgoon of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

In the Mining Region.

WILKESBARRE, PA., Sept. 1.—Nearly 10,000 men took part in the Labor Day parade in this city today. All the trades unions were represented, but the majority of those in line were miners. The strikers were cheered all along the route of march. They carried banners which bore inscriptions pleading for their cause.

HAZLETON, PA., Sept. 1.—Eight thousand United Mine workers from every portion of the Seventh district except the Panther Creek valley participated in the Labor day demonstration here this afternoon. At a mass meeting resolutions were adopted denouncing the order of Gen. Gobin, which directs the soldiers at Lansford to shoot if insulted or interfered with by the strikers, and requesting Gov. Stone to remove Gen. Gobin from the command of the troops in the coal fields.

SCRANTON, PA., Sept. 1.—Twenty thousand men marched in the Labor Day parade here. It was the biggest labor demonstration ever seen in this city. The striking mine workers formed the entire first division and were over 12,000 strong. Two other divisions were made up of various trades unions. After the parade a picnic was held at Lake Ariel.

WU TALKS TO LABOR.

Declares Chinese Exclusion Is Blow to Commerce of This Country With China.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Sept. 1.—Wu Ting Fang, the Chinese minister to the United States, was the chief speaker at the Labor day observance here. He took occasion to speak of the Chinese exclusion law, pointing out that in his opinion it was a blow to the commerce of this country with China. In the course of his address Minister Wu said:

"The industrial development of the United States has now reached a stage in which production is so much greater than what is required for home consumption that an outlet has to be found for the surplus products. It will not be long before the western states will compete with the eastern states in manufactures. Where shall they go for a market, if not to China? The trade of the United States with China has been steadily increasing for some time past. This increase would have been much more marked if there had been no legislative obstacles in the way. It is said that trade is not sentimental—that men will buy where things are cheapest. That is true only where there is no competition. But England, France, Germany, Japan, Belgium and others are also in the field. Under such circumstances sentiment may turn the scale in favor of one country against another.

"In this connection I may be expected to say a word or two about the discriminative legislation against my countrymen. I do not wish to enter into a discussion on the subject now that it is settled. But I can assure you that nothing has ever been said or done by me which is not to the real interest of all workingmen. It has been my aim, not to secure the unrestricted admission of Chinese laborers into the United States, but to remove unnecessary obstacles to the coming of Chinese merchants, students and other desirable classes of Chinese. Such a stand certainly does American workingmen no harm. I think some means can be devised that will amply protect American labor without offending the sensibilities of a friendly nation. It is certainly unjust to stigmatize the whole people of a country as undesirable."

MUSICIANS STRIKE AND LEAVE PARADE.

Toledo, O., Sept. 1.—The members of the Musicians union, forming the various bands in the Labor Day parade today, went on a strike just as the parade was ready to move. The moulders' union came into the line with a band from Waterville, a small village near here, at its head. As soon as the members of the Musicians union saw this they gave a signal, and every piece of music in the parade except the Waterville band, walked out and marched to their headquarters. The Waterville band was summarily discharged, but the union bands did not go back into the parade until the march was half completed.

FARLEY SELECTED AS AN ARCHBISHOP

CORRIGAN'S SUCCESSOR NAMED BY PROPAGANDA AT ROME.

The Rt. Rev. George Montgomery Is Also Elected as Coadjutor to the Most Rev. P. W. Riordan of San Francisco. Nominations Await Pope's Ratification.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

ROME, Sept. 1.—The propaganda, after a lengthy sitting today, decided to recommend the pope to appoint the Rt. Rev. John M. Farley, D. D., the auxiliary bishop of New York, as archbishop of New York, in succession to the late Most Rev. Michael Augustine Corrigan, and the Rt. Rev. George Montgomery, bishop of Los Angeles, Cal., as coadjutor to the Most Rev. Patrick William Riordan, archbishop of San Francisco.

Cardinal Gotti, prefect of the propaganda, presided. The other cardinals present were Serafino Vannutelli, Vincent Vannutelli, Satolli, Steinhuber, Segna, Cretoni, Vivesy, Tuto and Martinelli. The discussion lasted three hours and a half.

Cardinal Martinelli, who was charged to set forth the case to his colleagues, made a minute and detailed report about the different candidates. The information received showed that Dr. Farley was qualified as the most worthy candidate for the post, both in the list of the priests and bishops and in the reports of the archbishops of the United States.

After a discussion in which all the cardinals participated, Cardinal Gotti summed up the expressions of opinions of those present, with the result that the choice of Dr. Farley was unanimous. The ratification of the pope is necessary to make the appointment definite.

Mgr. Veccia, secretary of the propaganda, will report today's meeting to his holiness some time during this week. The formality of the confirmation of the decision reached by the cardinals, however, is sometimes delayed.

The qualifications of the candidates for the post of coadjutor to the archbishop of San Francisco were outlined by Cardinal Satolli, whose eulogy of the Rt. Rev. George Montgomery resulted in this prelate's nomination almost without discussion. It is understood that Dr. Farley will ask for an auxiliary bishop on account of the size and importance of the archdiocese of New York.

CROSS-CHARGES OF HIGHWAY ROBBERY

Two Men Locked Up for Offense Make Same Accusation Against Prosecutor.

The outcome of numerous cases of highway robbery at the old Arch bridge in East Pittsburgh is the arrest of three persons. One of these was discharged yesterday while the other two are still under the charge, each on the affidavit of the other. Meanwhile all of East Pittsburgh is anxiously awaiting the outcome to see if the perpetrators of the series of robberies are at last caught.

On Saturday evening, August 23, no less than six people were held up and relieved of valuables between 10 and 11 o'clock at this point. Among those claiming to have been thus dealt with are Quill J. Hamilton and Charles Kline of East Pittsburgh. Hamilton was shot through the right hand and is crippled for life in that member. The others robbed were Hungarians.

Sunday Kline and Hamilton were arrested, charged with highway robbery, by Michael Furrie, foreman of a track gang of the Pennsylvania railroad, and a resident of East Pittsburgh. The charges were made before Justice Mulhooley of that town, and the two were given hearings yesterday morning. Kline was discharged from lack of evidence. Hamilton waived a hearing and was released on bail for appearance at court.

The two then preferred charges against Furrie, their prosecutor, before Justice G. H. Jaquay of Rankin, for highway robbery and felonious shooting. Hamilton alleges that Furrie is the man who shot him in the hand. Furrie charges the others with robbing him of $11 and a watch. All the parties are well known in the locality, and interest runs high.

A STRIKING MINER ENDED HIS OWN LIFE

Driven from Scranton by lack of work, John Rilyak, a Hungarian miner, one of the union men now on strike in the anthracite coal district, was killed yesterday by the engine of a freight train on the Monongahela division of the Pennsylvania railroad at the Ann street crossing in Homestead. Several persons, who saw the occurrence, say that he jumped in front of the moving engine with the deliberate purpose of suicide. He was identified by the name given above being tattooed on his arm.

Rilyak applied to the Homestead police yesterday for aid, and was told to apply for work at the mills. He left the police station with this purpose. During the afternoon he was seen loitering about Ann street. He was struck by the engine about 6:30 p. m. His head was severed from his body.

CAN'T SPARE KNOX.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 1.—(Special.)—It is not thought likely here that Attorney General Knox will be appointed to the vacancy on the supreme court bench when Justice Shiras retires. This is because Mr. Knox has no inclination for life on the bench, at least not at present. If he so desired he probably could have an associate justiceship, for the president considers Mr. Knox highly qualified to serve in the highest tribunal of the United States; but at the same time he would not like to lose the service and advice of Mr. Knox as a cabinet member. With the trusts looming large as a national issue the attorney general probably will be the right hand of the administration.

Don't forget. Nothing is too good for us. That's why we spent money for the genuine song hit, "The Summer Days." Get it, and next Sunday's Gazette for 5 cents.

GAME IS ROBBED OF THE GLAMOUR OF ACTUAL WAR

Admiral's Entertainment of Social Party on Flagship Shocks the Navy.

MORE FEAR OF CONGRESS

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 1.—"Looks as though war was a gentle social pastime instead of what Gen. Sherman described it," remarked a naval officer today regarding Rear Admiral Higginson receiving the duchess of Marlborough, Col. Sanger, assistant secretary of war, and a party of friends aboard the hostile red fleet as it hovered off the Narragansett coast prepared to strike at the shore defenses yesterday.

If the hostile fleet's commander had swung a 13-inch gun Washingtonward and dropped a shell into the navy department, it would have aroused little more comment than the invitation which Rear Admiral Higginson is reported to have extended the duchess against the advice of the commanding officers of the ships of the red fleet, who straightforwardly expressed their disapproval of relaxing the tensity of the war game. Naturally enough officers in Washington are unwilling to make any public criticism of their superior, Admiral Higginson. Acting Secretary Darling is waiting to be advised of the details.

No Popgun Show Intended.

When plans were first made for the war game Secretary Moody talked freely of the intentions of the navy, and Secretary Root said some plain things about the army's share. The heads of the two departments said they wanted it thoroughly understood that the combined maneuvers were to be far above the popgun variety.

"The conditions of war are to be simulated to as great a degree as possible," said Secretary Moody.

Over on the other side of the state, war and navy building, Secretary Root said that was his opinion also.

There was much talk of secrecy. Newspaper men were to be barred from all information bearing on the maneuvers. When a flood of correspondents made request of the secretary of the navy to be allowed places on the fleet, they were told that there was not room, and the press representation would be restricted to a limited number of reporters for press associations. No one was to be allowed on the fleet unless there was good reason for such action.

Endangers Future Appropriations.

Some one suggested that the maneuvers had been planned for the coast off Newport so that the world of fashion would have an easy view. This was promptly denied. The maneuvers district, it was emphatically said, was located there because the army wanted those fortifications tested.

"I see the finish of any recommendation for maneuver appropriation sent to congress next session," remarked a naval officer today.

Col. Sanger, to all intentions and purposes, is the secretary of war, Mr. Root being absent in Europe. Even if war had not actually begun, the commander of a really hostile fleet off the coast would scarcely receive aboard the secretary of war of the United States.

Although the duchess of Marlborough probably had no object except satisfaction of her curiosity in visiting the fleet, she is a British subject. Before the war game began, strict rules were drafted by both army and navy that foreign attaches should be barred from the fortifications and fleet. If the duke of Marlborough had been in this country and requested permission to board the fleet, it would not not have been granted him.

Nearly 300 professionals have begun singing "The Summer Days" since August 15th. This means a new song hit. Free with next Sunday's Gazette.

TARIFF A FAILURE.

Sum Received on Imports from Philippines So Small It Won't Pay for Collection.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 1.—Surprising results have followed the compilation of tariff returns on goods imported from the Philippine islands during the first five months of the operation of the Philippine tariff act, approved March 8. Under that act 75 per cent of the Dingley rates were to be collected on Philippine imports into the United States, and this was to be held as a trust fund in the United States treasury.

Although when the act was passed it was realized that the imposition of any duties of this kind would be restrictive of trade, it was argued that as the returns would be somewhere in the neighborhood of $500,000 a year, that consideration would outweigh the drawbacks of maintaining a tariff system against the Philippines.

The returns just published in the treasury show that the total receipts for the five months of March, April, May, June and July were but $11,191, a sum so small, in the opinion of the officials, as to scarcely meet the cost of collection. Moreover the returns by months do not show any increase, but rather a decrease in the collections.

These facts will be brought to the attention of congress at its next session.

May Loosen Exclusion Law.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 1.—It is the opinion at the war department that Gov. Taft's remarks at the board of trade banquet in Manila yesterday respecting employment of labor on plantations will form the basis of a suggestion to congress at the next session, that the act extending the Chinese exclusion law to the Philippines be amended.

POLICE CHIEF HURT BY MOB

NEW CASTLE, PA., Sept. 1.—Chief of Police Horner was badly injured tonight in a desperate melee on Main street. He attempted to arrest Nathan Shaffer when several of the latter's friends attacked the officer.

Horner knocked two down, but was fighting against heavy odds when Constable Van Gorder and Carl McCleary went to his assistance. The latter received a bad gash on his head, while Horner was cut several times.

Shaffer, Robert Linton and Charles Book were arrested for causing the riot, but others were implicated.

The affray attracted a crowd of over 1,000 people, who cheered Chief Horner when he conquered his assailants finally. Other arrests will follow.

JUDGE J. M. GREER ILL FROM INJURIES

The Butler County Jurist Is Unable to Hold Court.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

BUTLER, PA., Sept. 1.—On account of the illness of Judge John M. Greer of this place Judge Reed of Brockville is holding the September quarter sessions court of Butler county.

Judge Greer has been confined to his bed for several days with severe pains in his head, and threatened fever, which are thought to be due to an accident that he met with in Washington, D. C., a few weeks ago. In stepping off a street car he fell, striking his head on the pavement. The injury pained him very much at the time and he has been annoyed with pains in his head ever since.

His condition is improved tonight, but he will not be able to attend court for several days.

ASSAULT MAY BE FATAL

New Castle Citizen Found in an Unconscious Condition on the Street.

NEW CASTLE, PA., Sept. 1.—(Special.)—Harvey Barge of Howard street was found this evening lying unconscious in South Jefferson street the victim of a murderous assault. He is unconscious at the hospital and his wounds will likely result fatally. Little can be learned of the assault, as no one witnessed it and Barge is unable to speak.

He is a well-known citizen and the father of Park Superintendent Perry Barge.

Barge's head shows several marks from some blunt instrument.

Boy Injured for a Cent.

SHARON, PA., Sept. 1.—(Special.)—The 5-year-old son of Charles Clouse placed a penny on the railroad track yesterday for the wheels of a train to flatten. Realizing that it would be worthless after the train passed over it, he attempted to recover the penny before the train came. He was struck by the locomotive and seriously hurt.

WOMAN KILLED IN A RUNAWAY

Reading Railroad President's Daughter Also Injured in the Accident.

PLUCKILY HELD THE TEAM

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

LANCASTER, PA., Sept. 1.—In an accident, while they were driving this morning Mrs. J. Stewart Walker of Lynchburg, Va., was killed and Mrs. William N. Appel of this city was hurt so badly that she lies at the General Hospital in a precarious condition.

Mrs. Appel is a daughter of George F. Baer, president of the Reading Railroad Company. Mrs. Walker, with her four children, was here on a visit to her mother. This morning she and Mrs. Appel started for a pleasure drive. They had just given a merry goodbye to the children and were scarcely on their way when a trolley car approached from the rear and a countryman's milk wagon drove close up behind them. The milkman's horses scared, and dashing into Mrs. Appel's carriage broke it and scared her horse into running away.

Mrs. Appel made a plucky effort to regain control of the frightened horse, but the carriage, striking a telegraph pole, was overturned and both women were thrown to the street. They were picked up unconscious, and, with cut faces and scalps, were carried to the General hospital. Mrs. Walker had a compound fracture of the skull and she died this evening.

Mrs. Appel is suffering from concussion of the brain and severe cuts and bruises. Mr. Baer hastened to the bedside of his daughter on a special train, arriving here late this afternoon.

Three Boys May Be Drowned.

MONESSEN, PA., Sept. 1.—(Special.)—Three suits of clothes were found on the banks of the river at Lock No. 4 tonight and the supposition is that three boys have met death from drowning. All efforts to find the owners of the clothes have been in vain, and the people there are mystified.

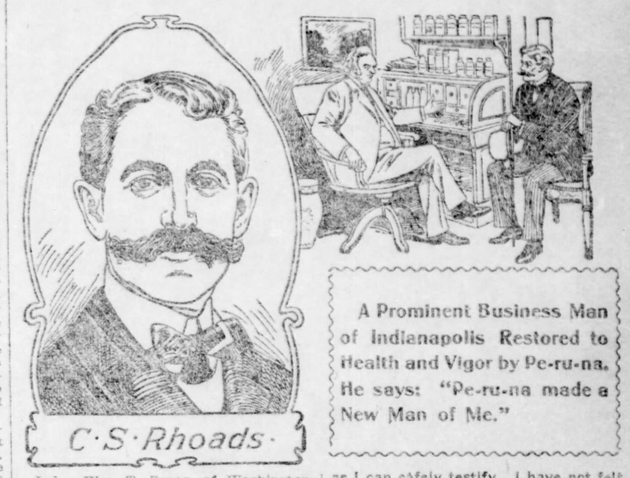
FOR SYSTEMIC CATARRH

Peculiar to Summer Pe-ru-na Gives Prompt and Permanent Relief.

C. S. Rhoads, Indianapolis, Ind., writes:

"For the past two years I have hardly known what it was to have a sweet, restful night's sleep. Ceres and overwork seemed to weigh me down more than it should or would had I been able to get my proper rest. My doctor was unable to help me, and ordered me South for a complete rest and change. As this was simply out of the question, and as I had heard several of the men under me speak of how much Peruna had helped them, I decided to try it, and am glad indeed that I did. Six bottles made a new man of me. I eat well, sleep well and get up feeling refreshed and rested.

"My official duties are not half so hard and I certainly have good reasons to heartily endorse Peruna."—C. S. Rhoads.



A Prominent Business Man of Indianapolis Restored to Health and Vigor by Pe-ru-na. He says: "Pe-ru-na made a New Man of Me."

Judge Wm. T. Zenor, of Washington, D. C., writes from 213 N. Capital street, Washington, D. C.:

"I take pleasure in saying that I can cheerfully recommend the use of Peruna as a remedy for catarrhal trouble and a most excellent tonic for general conditions."—Wm. T. Zenor.

Mrs. Amanda Morrill, 130 Reid street, Elizabeth, N. J., writes:

"I have been sick over two years with nervous prostration and general debility, and heart trouble. Have had four doctors; all said that I could not get well. I had not walked a step in nine months, suffering with partial paralysis and palpitation of the heart every other day, and had become so reduced in flesh as to be a mere skeleton, weighing only 85 pounds.

"Up to this date I have taken Peruna for seven months. It has saved my life as I can safely testify. I have not felt so well in five years, having walked over one mile without ill results, and have also gained 30 pounds since commencing to take Peruna. In fact, I cannot praise it too highly."—Mrs. Amanda Morrill.

Peruna never fails to prevent systemic catarrh or nervous prostration if taken in time. Peruna is the most prompt and permanent cure for all cases of nervous prostration caused by systemic catarrh known to the medical profession.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

The letter was written by Mrs. Clara L. Platner of South Boyd street, Decatur, Ill.

The company now has three furnaces, but the oldest one will not be used after the two new building have been completed.

Dead Man's Body Deserted—The morgue officials were yesterday notified that the body of August Suerin was brought to the Baltimore & Ohio railroad station by four persons and left there. The morgue refused to accept the body, as the man had been killed outside of this county. It was given in charge of a local undertaker and will either be buried here by the railroad company or sent to Barnesville, where it came from.

Too Energetic Constable—Fred Brickerton, a constable of West Elizabeth, was arrested yesterday afternoon for his zeal in attempting to preserve the peace outside of his own bailiwick. He saw two men fighting at Second avenue and Grant street about 4 o'clock and waded in with his handibilly to separate the combatants. Friends of the fighters objected to his interference, and in about a minute the street looked as if a riot was in progress.

Homestead Schools Open—Today the Homestead public schools will open for the fall term and the enrollment is expected to be much greater than ever before. Since the schools closed for the summer vacation many families have moved into Homestead, and in view of the fact that the attendance will be large the school board has made ample arrangements for the care of the extra scholars. THE COAL SUPPLY.

Good Stock on Hand at Both Cincinnati and Louisville.

There is a fair supply of coal in stock at Cincinnati and Louisville, enough it is said to tide over the various interests until Thanksgiving day, when usually there is good shipping water in the Ohio river.

C. Dutte & Co. have inquiry for coal that will make up their stock of barges at Cincinnati. They also have about 16 coalboats afloat at that place, which is yet to be disposed of, but it will all go shortly. There is said to be plenty of coal at Louisville. The coal combination has a good stock on hand at both places. This is a dull period in the coal business, but within a month there is expected to be an active demand for the product. Much coal is being loaded in the Monongahela valley, and when the rise develops there will be the usual amount loaded to send to the south.

News of the Rivers.

Capt. Joseph Price is home from Atlantic City.

The new Columbia is at the Monongahela wharf. She will be finished at Pittsburgh.

The towboat Stella Moren, Capt. Joseph Kitchell, is receiving new cylinder timbers.

The towboats John Moren, Voyager, Jim Wood and Dave Wood are at Elizabeth receiving repairs.

W. N. Gordon, freight agent of the Anchor line, has returned from Cincinnati, where he spent his vacation.

Capt. Walter Carroll, who has returned from Atlantic city, reports having caught a shark and captured a young whale.

The A. R. Budd Coal Company has two tows of barges and one of coalboats loaded and waiting shipment for the south.

A number of pool towboat pilots will this week challenge the employes of the Elizabeth marine ways to play a match game of ball.

There are now five boats lying at the wharf with broken shafts. The John A. Wood, Iron Age, Ironsides, Jim Moren and Geo. W. Thomas.

The Enterprise, which was successfully launched, will not be completed for some time. She has to receive her cabin, and much work will be done on her before she is ready to run.

The new towboat Rover, which takes the place of the Maggie, is about ready to go into the river. The boat was scheduled to slide from the ways yesterday, but it being a holiday, labor was scarce.

The towboat F. M. Peell ran through herself and tore things up badly in the engine room. The boat was taken to the Duquesne Coal Company's wharf, where the Charles Rees & Son's Company are making repairs.

The towboat John C. Fisher, which sank several days ago at Braddock, was raised yesterday. It is said that the boat will do pumping for the Tenth street landing of the Dilworth Coal Company in the near future.

The T. N. Barnsdall, Capt. Henry Roe, will be sent to Gallipolis to have two new boilers put on by the Gallipolis Foundry & Machine Company. These boilers were built for the ill-fated Kanawha Belle, that went over a dam above Charleston several months ago.

The excursion to be given tomorrow on the Tornance by the members of Harbor No. 25, Masters, Mates & Pilots, will be one of the largest of the season. The boat leaves the wharf at 9 a. m., stopping at Hazelwood, Braddock and McKeesport on the way to Moss Side park.

The Reindeer was one of the most beautiful steamers of the good old steamboat day. She enjoyed the distinction of wearing more scroll work on her exterior decorations than any of her fellow-craft. She ran between Louisville and Cincinnati, and was the foundation of the "Lightning Line," and was exceedingly popular with high-class travelers.

The last acquisition to the Pittsburgh fleet is Capt. Tom Hardy's Jack Frost, which, we understand, has become the property of the Peoples Coal Company. The Jutes are at the head of the Peoples Coal Company, which is said to be the stiffest opposition the river company has had. The Jutes are shrewd, wealthy and nervy coal and towboat operators.—Waterways Journal.

Demand for "Stag Brand" Melons Greater Than Supply.

Two carloads of "Stag Brand" cantaloupes sold and a great many orders still unfilled, is our record for yesterday. Any one fortunate enough to get hold of the genuine "Stag Brand" cantaloupe wants no other kind thereafter, and we find a strongly increasing demand for our goods which we are doing our best to supply. If you want the best and sweetest, get the "Stag Brand." Albert M. Travis, Distributer, 645 Liberty avenue. Both 'phones.

USED HATCHET ON A RECREANT WIFE

PASQUALE PONANI FOUND HER IN COMPANY WITH BOARDER.

She Had Deserted Husband and Family in Buffalo, but He Followed Her and Inflicted Injuries on Faithless Woman That May Prove Fatal.

Pasquale Ponanai, an Italian, yesterday afternoon attempted to murder his wife, Mrs. Elma A. Ponanai, at No. 1202 Poplar alley, after following her from Buffalo, where she had deserted him and three small children to follow Mike Ross, another Italian. Ponanai fully intended killing the woman, as he beat her over the head with a hatchet and cut her with a razor. All persons implicated in the affair were placed under arrest.

The trouble first started in Buffalo. There Ross and Ponanai worked together as laborers, the former making his home with the latter as his boarder. There was a strong friendship between Mrs. Ponanai and Ross, and when the husband discovered it he sent Ross away from the house. He came direct to Pittsburgh and rented several rooms in a tenement house at No. 1202 Poplar alley.

A week ago Mrs. Ponanai deserted her husband and three children and came to Pittsburgh. Ponanai raised enough money for the trip and arrived in this city yesterday morning. As he possessed Ross' address he had no trouble in finding the house.

When Ponanai entered the room, shortly before 3 o'clock yesterday, his wife and Ross were there. Some few angry words were exchanged between the couple, when suddenly Ponanai drew a razor, and while his wife's back was turned, slashed her across the neck. He then made a lunge at Ross, but fell and dropped his razor. Ross ran out and the woman tried to follow, but her husband caught her by the skirt. He jumped to his feet and then snatched up a hatchet. With the sharp edge he began beating his wife over the head. He struck her six times on the head and several times upon the body, one blow on the arm fracturing it so that the bones protruded.

Blood Covered Everything.

During the scuffle Ponanai had evidently knocked his wife all over the room, as the walls, floor and furniture were covered with blood.

The Italians outside began to cry for the police, and Special Officer Frank Lee of the bureau of health, who was in the vicinity, responded. Ponanai showed fight, but was soon overpowered. The woman was lying on the floor unconscious, but with her husband was taken to the Eleventh ward police station. Ponanai was locked up to await the result of his wife's injuries.

The woman was attended by Dr. A. E. McCandless, and later was sent to the Passavant hospital. It was found her skull was not fractured and she may recover.

Officer John Tobin arrested Ross later and took him to the Central police station. The police have possession of the hatchet and razor. Both were covered with blood. None of those implicated can speak English, and the details of the affair had to be gotten through an interpreter. Ponanai is 30 years old and his wife is 23 years old.

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 2, 1902.

TWELVE PAGES.

Unlawful Zeal.

Pittsburgh police methods are hard to understand. While speakeasies have been running in full view, and as a matter of common knowledge, the police have been unable to find them or raid them, and yet they seem to claim authority to enter a private residence upon suspicion. A case is reported from the East End of a police visitation to a private residence on suspicion that a poker game was going on there. As a matter of fact, it was a purely social gathering, singing furnishing the principal recreation, and the raiding party, after searching for poker chips and cards without success, retired discomfited. But even suppose there had been a poker game, what right had the police to enter a private residence without a warrant? The activity of the police in snooping about private residences in such a manner, combined with their inactivity concerning notorious places of public resort, is a puzzling circumstance. Where the public may go the police may go, but when it comes to entering private houses without a warrant the courts have held time and again that the fact of being police officers does not relieve the act from being a trespass, and the household would be within their rights in offering resistance.

The Fatal Error.

There is much to commend in the address of Vice President Lewis of the Mine Workers. He exhibits a broad conception of public policies and wisely advocates arbitration in preference to the strike. Even in appealing for an extra session of the legislature he makes his appeal on tenable grounds. But his fatal error is in failing to distinguish between a concrete case and an abstract proposition. There is no certainty that the legislature would follow the lines laid down by the speaker, even if convened. That sort of work is better left for times when prejudice is less rampant than in the heat of a struggle between crafty mine operators and miners who attempt to enforce mob law.

Unjust and Absurd.

It is said the Republican county committee contemplates the adoption of a rule that will disqualify at Republican primaries any voter who does not vote the county ticket in the Republican column, but will qualify anyone who votes the Democratic state ticket along with the Republican county ticket. Such a rule could have but one purpose—namely, to disqualify those who vote the Citizens ticket and protect those who vote the Ballot Reform ticket. In that light the rule would be manifestly unjust and unfair.

Looked at from an abstract point of view, the reported rule is absurd. Its illogical sequence would be to hold that the man who voted for Bryan and the Republican candidate for constable in his ward in 1900 is a regular Republican, while the man who voted for McKinley and the Democratic candidate for constable is not a Republican and ought not to vote at the Republican primaries. Such a construction would be the height of absurdity, but it is precisely what the proposed rule would declare in principle, though not in degree.

There have been evidences of incompetence in the management of the Republican organization in this county. But nothing ever complained of quite equals this suggestion to read out of the Republican party every voter who is true to the state ticket, though unable to swallow all of the local candidates. There is reason in the rule to deny primary privileges to voters who have not supported presidential, or even state tickets of their party, but to put a premium upon non-support of the state ticket is not merely unreasonable, but destructive of party organization. It is nonsense or worse.

Just What Is Needed.

Decidedly to the point is the chamber of commerce report on the improvement of the rivers. The need for additional means of handling the immense tonnage of the Pittsburgh district has been brought home to every shipper, large or small, during the past twelve months. July of this year presented an example of how a navigable river could relieve the situation, so the chamber is naturally more than ever insistent that the stream be made permanently useful.

There is good reason for the request that the permanent stage be made nine, instead of six feet. The greater depth is necessary to handling what are known as coalboats, in which an important part of the Ohio river traffic is carried. With a river permanently able to accommodate craft of such draught the stress upon railroads to the south and west would be materially lessened.

Probably in no other country would such an obvious advantage to commerce have been so long neglected. Note, for example, the willingness of Great Britain to spend vast sums to promote the Cape to Cairo railroad through a wilderness. That line may never carry traffic as heavy as that which stands awaiting the completion of the Pittsburgh to Cairo river improvement. The work is not alone for the benefit of Pittsburgh, but will be of similar advantage to Cincinnati, Louisville, St. Louis, New Orleans and the vast regions tributary to them. It is time something practical was being done about it.

Demand for Legislative Action.

Whatever demand there may be for a special session of the legislature to deal with the conditions produced by the coal strike finds loudest expression in the anthracite region and is voiced by strikers and others in sympathy with them. The demand is therefore prejudiced in the public mind as a mere symptom of hostile feeling toward the coal operators. If legislation is to be attempted in regulation of conditions between capital and labor it should not be born of a desire to injure one class or benefit another, but should proceed from the broader considerations of public policy for the protection of the whole body of the people against the consequences of such temporary dissolutions of the natural partnership between employer and employe as have resulted in the cessation of mining operations. It is, to say the least, doubtful whether such intelligent action as is proper and reasonable could be obtained at a session of the general assembly called in a period of such excitement and bitterness as exists now, when the employer demands unconditional surrender and the late employe is with difficulty restrained from riot by exercise of the military power of the state. When it is all over and men are cooler the work of amending the statutes for the general welfare may be begun with better prospect of bearing good fruit.

Naval Successes in Mimic Warfare.

The Olympia has not forgotten her old tricks of cable cutting and seizing lines of communication. Although the cruiser does not carry Dewey, as she did at Manila, she keeps up her record on the Atlantic coast. Her dash into the port of Wood Holl, Mass., where she landed a force and seized all the telegraph, telephone and cable stations, was suggestive of her work in the Philippines four years ago. The Olympia's exploit at Woods Holl was repeated at other points on the coast, and in the mimic warfare of yesterday the navy scored several points over the army. There was a heavy bombardment of Block Island, on which the Brooklyn succeeded at length in landing troops.

Yesterday was decidedly the navy's day. Admiral Higginson has seized a base of operations, destroyed the "enemy's" facilities for communication, and made things generally uncomfortable for the army. The invaders are flushed with victory and the defenders are no doubt correspondingly depressed.

The Verdict of a Prince.

Whatever reports the wires have brought us of the Russian grand duke whose tour of the world has brought him across the American continent from San Francisco it is impossible not to admire his tact. The irrepressible interviewer has of course found him and found him to be a ready talker and cheerful commentator on American life as he has observed it in the great cities he has visited. "Truly," he says, "America is a land of hope, and a land of hope is a land of pleasantness and good humor. In Chicago and Buffalo I was particularly struck by the pleasantness, ready wit and easy-going manners of their people. And though he confesses a conviction that Chicago is "the most unlovely city" he has visited, "as a whole hateful, simply hateful, a wilderness of endless streets, untidy, unpicturesque," he honeys it with the declaration: "But I had such a magnificent time there! I shall never forget it." And withal he was "delighted with Chicago" and interested by "the magnificent equestrian statue of Gen. Logan by St. Gaudens, the statue of Lincoln by the same sculptor and the Hull House of Social Settlement, which must be like a ray of sunshine to the friendless in that weary wilderness of streets." So, after all, Chicago cannot complain, especially as the criticism is one that any American might make. "San Francisco is the most charming city," he has "ever been in in any country," and "New York comes next," he says, "in my estimation. It is so much more cosmopolitan than any city I have been in. I am now at home here." What better could be desired of a prince? San Francisco, most charming; in Chicago, such a magnificent time, and in Chicago and Buffalo, such ready wit; in cosmopolitan New York, most at home. And then our women. Alas, however, not their beauty or their charm, but "their capacity for business that their sex in no other country possesses." It is appreciative, though; so is the later thought that "their independent spirit" is "one that should be admired and encouraged, for it is a splendid example they are teaching the whole sex. I only wish," declares the prince, "that the same independent trait existed among the women of my country that does here."

It is easy to believe after this that the special telegrams that have depicted the prince as merely out for a roaring big time, leaving a trail of empty champagne bottles behind him and drinking the foaming beverage from the slipper of a chorus girl, have failed to do him justice. As the returns come in, making us better acquainted with him, he improves mightily. Had he risen to the beauty and the charm of American women, from appreciation of their business capacity as almost equal to that of the men of a country, all hurrying to be millionaires, he would have left little, if anything, to be desired.

Speakeasies in Court.

Several constables were astonished, when making returns to the court yesterday, by the information that unreported speakeasies existed within their respective bailiwicks. It is not probable their astonishment was as much due to learning that speakeasies were run as to the fact that District Attorney Haymaker and the court knew where they were located. Constables have been almost as blind as the police in passing well-known resorts without observing their character.

All of the constables have been given opportunity to amend their returns. It will be interesting to note the result. It will also be a matter of interest to note what happens when some of the places reputed to be under police protection come before the criminal court. It has been given out upon high authority recently that police court justice is more effective in ridding the city of illegal liquor sellers than the brand dealt out at the court house. There is likely to be an opportunity for comparison in the near future, and that is what lends special interest to the proceedings which began with the returns made by the constables.

The Blue to Aid the Gray.

The appeal of the commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic for financial assistance in the erection of a home for ex-confederate soldiers at Mountain Creek, Ala., is a significant illustration of the present era of good feeling between the survivors of the great civil war. Commander Torrance has made an official visit to the south, where he found departments of the Grand Army of the Republic existing in amicable relationship with the organizations of confederate veterans. It surely looks as though the war were not only over, but almost forgotten, when the Camp of Confederate Veterans of Alabama entertains the commander-in-chief of the Grand Army, with the department of Alabama, and gives a dinner at which every wearer of the blue has a wearer of the gray sitting by his side, and former enemies tell each other that they are all citizens of a common country and followers of a common flag.

This appeal from Commander Torrance is the last he will address to the Grand Army as commander-in-chief, and no doubt it will call forth a ready response, as an indication of the willingness of northern soldiers to assist the southern soldiers who are now in need.

President Roosevelt has the happy faculty of speaking plainly and frankly without causing serious disturbance in business circles. His shots are delivered with such accuracy that they hit only the target aimed at.

Before unreservedly condemning David B. Hill for the assertion that he never kissed a woman all the facts in the case should be ascertained. The majority of women are quite particular on this point.

While the Hon. J. M. Guffey has no issues to contribute to the state campaign of his party he might throw in an oil well or two without much trouble if all reports as to his prosperity be correct.

The Union party convention in Philadelphia tomorrow promises to be a pretty fair representation of that famous soiree between the historical cats of Kilkenny.

There is a vast quantity of expert knowledge on the question of settling strikes going to waste these days if the newspapers are to be believed.

Admiral Cervera would no doubt be an interested spectator of the naval maneuvers if circumstances were such as to permit his presence.

Miss Crosman's Dignity.

From the New York Times.

Henrietta Crosman is a medicine woman of the Sioux tribe. For she herself has said so—this is the story as she told it:

"My father, Maj. Crosman, was a well-known Indian fighter, and I was born on a reservation. My mother once saved the life of a squaw of the Sioux tribe from a terrible death, and in order to reward my mother I was made a medicine woman of the tribe, and invested with all the rights and insignia of that dignified office."

Needless to add, Miss Crosman does not wear war paint or indulge in snake dances.

A Careless Mistake.

From the Baltimore American.

"Why did they discharge the Sunday editor?" asked the exchange man of the Daily Yellowhammer.

"Oh, he was too careless," explained the editor, whose duties consisted of marking to the cross in the picture to show where the bloodhounds lost the trail. "He paid $50 for an article on 'Ancient Greek Sandals Becoming Popular in High Society.'"

"I don't see why he would be discharged for that."

"You don't? He thought it was 'scandals' instead of 'sandals.'"

THIS LABOR DAY THE BIGGEST YET

The Weather Just Right, and 45,000 Men in Parade Line. Mr. Devery Helps.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square,
NEW YORK, Sept. 1.

Labor Day in New York this year was the biggest one yet. That is the assertion of hundreds of union men tonight, and they should know, if anyone could. In the first place, the weather was just right. Sunny, but not too hot; breezy, but not too boisterous; dry, but not too dusty—what more could a gay, holiday-making crowd ask of the weather bureau? Moreover, so satisfied was everyone with the conditions that the often mistaken official forecaster got all the credit for the weather today, not the less so because he had predicted rain—"local showers," he called it. Of course, the main feature of the day was the parade, and so gorgeous was it that it deserved the place of honor in the interest of the population, aside from the magnificence of the day which demands the parade. Figures, said to be authentic, testify that there were 45,000 men in line, as the representatives of nearly 100 trades marched down Fifth avenue and Broadway this morning. It was a variegated procession, as well as a large one, for many of the trades, notably the United Housesmith's and Bridgemen's union, wore special uniforms. This particular union, made up of steelworkers who put the skyscrapers and big bridges together, wore bright red shirts and round hats that gave them a rollicking aspect as of cowboy and old-time fireman combined. A gallant body of men, brave and vigorous. By right of these virtues they had the right of the line after the marshal and his aides and the United board, who, in turn, were escorted by a detail of police. The other unions came behind in a long procession, with many banners bearing devices and mottoes explanatory of their position. As soon as the parade was over there was a general rush for the excursion boats and trolleys to get to the seashore. Thousands had preceded them to Coney, the Rockaways and other nearby resorts, and there was a great gathering of the industrial clans when all got together there. The police arrangements were good and the list of casualties is not so long and serious as is often the case on a general holiday participated in by nearly 3,000,000 people. Labor Day certainly has been a success, so far as this metropolis is concerned.

Devery's Contribution.

"Big Bill" Devery did his part toward making Labor Day a joyous occasion. The barbecue, for which he paid, with two bullocks roasted entire, with 8,000 rolls for sandwiches and 200 half-barrels of beer, took place according to schedule, and 10,000 persons who went there hungry and thirsty came away filled to repletion, with lots of Devery eloquence added, to maintain the glory of the occasion as a feast of reason and flow of soul. Men were busy with the bullocks all night, so that the beef should be done to a turn when needed. It was well cooked, while the beer was pronounced to be the best beverage that ever came off the tap. Devery had made up his mind that it should be a pleasant occasion, and it was. The barbecue was held in a vacant lot at Thirteenth avenue and Twenty-ninth street, which is right down by the North river and is a dangerous place at night, but it was all right today. If there were any thugs and thieves there—and, if there were, no one could blame "Big Bill"—they kept quiet. Everything passed off according to schedule, and the Devery barbecue will become one of the magnificent traditions of the Ninth ward.

Harsh Criticism for the Admiral.

New York today has been discussing the visit of the duchess of Marlborough and other society people to the flagship Kearsarge yesterday, against the protest of nearly all the commanders of the fleet. This city takes a very warm interest in navy matters, probably because a battleship is more than a mere word to people living on the seaboard, being, in fact, a very real object. New Yorkers are used to seeing the fighting ships, and know many of them by sight when they are far out to sea. For this reason, perhaps, the discussion on the score of Admiral Higginson in inviting the assistant secretary of war, Mr. Sanger, the duchess, the irrepressible Harry Lehr, and a few others of the "smart set," to his flagship on the very eve of war, is warm and acrimonious. Although the war is only mimic-before, it is regarded seriously by those participating in it, and the admiral is criticised by people here in a way that would make him indignant if he could hear it. But this is a democratic country, and even every admiral is not exempt from criticism when his fellow-citizens think he may deserve it.

The Hungarian Flag Controversy.

That Hungarian flag, just brought over to this country, that raised the ire of some societies, appeared in the labor parade today, and no harm came of it. As already explained in The Gazette, the objection found to it was that it bears the inscription, "Be Dauntlessly Faithful to Your Fatherland, O Magyars." It is a handsome flag, and it waved above the heads of a detachment of Hungarians in the procession as bravely as any of the others. Still, there may be something in the objections raised to it. The men opposing the coming of the flag to New York maintain that one flag is not only enough for any patriot, but is all that anyone can consistently bear allegiance to at one time. Furthermore, they say that the American flag is good enough for them. There was no fuss over the matter today, but there may be before the flag has been in this country many days. There is much warm feeling over it in the Hungarian population here.

Oyster Season Opens.

With the dawning of September 1 comes the opening of the oyster season. It means more to New York than it does to Pittsburgh because so many of the oysters used throughout the country come through this market. Early this morning a fleet of sloops and boats full of oysters appeared at the regular place of landing, off Tenth street. Hundreds of barrels of the oysters are already on their way to the west, so that Pittsburgh, Denver, Chicago and points beyond may have their bivalves at about the same time as this city. It is difficult to escape from an old saw, and because some genius with more regard for epigram than truth said that oysters "R" in season in the months which contain the rolling letter, few persons can be induced to eat the delicate shell fish at any other time. The real season begins about August 5, although the demand is not large and the oyster merchants prefer to keep the stock in reserve until the New Yorkers get back to town and a breath of cool air turns their thoughts to stews and the half-shell and causes them to give more than passing attention to hospitable invitations to "take home a fry in a box."

Changes in the Courts.

Several changes in municipal laws go into effect today. Among them it may be mentioned that the general term of the city court has been abolished. All appeals from special term or jury verdicts in that court must be taken hereafter to the appellate term of the supreme court. The powers and perquisites of the city marshal have been abridged. Any person more than 18 years old may now serve the legal papers in municipal suits in place of that official.

A Fence for Deers' Eyes.

W. K. Vanderbilt has hit on an original idea for keeping the deer in his park at Idle Hour, over on Long Island, from escaping or hurting themselves. The animals have had a way of trying to plunge through the narrow spaces of his iron picket fence, or impaling themselves on it in trying to jump over it, when pursued by dogs. Mr. Vanderbilt has had the fence painted black, with large white spots. The animals, when frightened by dogs and dashing for safety will see these spots, even at night, and swerve away from the fence, or else leap high enough to clear it. Deer are costly animals, and Mr. Vanderbilt, multi-millionaire as he is, does not care to have them butchered.

Revolutionary War Trees Sacrificed.

There was a cutting down of historical trees in the Bronx on Saturday. The trees were three large walnuts which had stood at White Plaines road and Demilt avenue for more than 100 years, and have been cut down to make way for public improvements. The three trees were the survivors of 13 walnut strippings planted there during the revolution by an uncle of Paulding, one of the captors of Maj. Andre. At that time that section of the city was divided into large farms, one of which was owned by the planter of the trees. When the farm was cut up into streets and avenues, through the influence of George J. Penfield the trees were spared, although they formed an obstruction in the sidewalk. When plans were formulated recently to widen the White Plains road, sentiment had to give way to the practical needs of the community.

Sigel's Name May Live in a Park.

It is probable that New York will have a "Sigel park." The city authorities will be asked by admirers of the late Gen. Franz Sigel to change the name of Cedar park at One Hundred and Fifty-second street and Mott avenue to Sigel park, to honor the memory of the patriot and soldier. Gen. Sigel was a resident of the Bronx for more than a quarter of a century and his friends say that as he was the most prominent veteran of the civil war who lived in that part of the city, it would be appropriate to commemorate his patriotic services in such a substantial way. New York has a way of naming its many parks after national heroes, and no one can deny that it is a picturesque and commendable way, too.

Police Blackmail Charge Revived.

Talking about a "wide-open New York," one of the papers here makes this straightforward statement, without apology or qualification: "In the Tenderloin there are now 25 open gambling houses, and it would be almost impossible to find a block that does not have at least one poolroom. Collections by the police of blackmail are made with the same regularity as was observed under the last Tammany administration. Police Commissioner Partridge, who was recently decorated by the emperor of Germany, refuses to discuss the reason for the conditions which make public gambling possible." Capt. Sheehan, who is in charge of the Tenderloin police precinct, says he will close up the gambling houses—"if he can get evidence."

Popularity of the Aquarium.

The number of visitors to the aquarium in Battery park during August was 240,047. While this does not equal July's attendance of 272,580, it is much larger than that of August of last year. There is much interest in the exhibits at the aquarium, and visitors to the city are pretty sure to drop in there as one of the sights of the town. In most large cities in these days there is a "zoo," but in no other have they such a fine collection of fish, especially seafish, as is in the New York aquarium.

Paid $208,000 in Hotel Bills.

Henry Clay Barnabee, the veteran comedian of the "Bostonians," who has hosts of friends in Pittsburgh, as he has everywhere, says that he has spent $208,000 in hotel bills in 42 years. Now he is tired of hotel life, and has established himself in an apartment house in Riverside drive. The old gentleman seems to be as spry as ever, but he wants home-life, he says—at least while in New York. On the road, of course, it will be different.

Labor Day Yacht Races.

Among the amusements of Labor day possible only to people living on the seaboard was a number of yacht races. One of the most interesting was the ocean race under the supervision of the Atlantic Yacht club, from Sea Gate to Fire Island. A number of deep-sea sailors took part, and there was a lot of fun in it, not only for the participants, but for excursionists on Rockaway and Coney Island boats. The holiday makers cheered the yachts joyfully without caring who won, so long as there was excitement, and there is always plenty of that when the wind is as fresh as it was this morning.

There is always the other side of the story. While eastern money is going westward to bring on the crops of grain, $25,000,000 worth of millinery alone is going west to bring just that much eastern money home again.

BELGIAN THRONE GOES TO FLANDERS

Aged Count Will Not Renounce Since Quarrel With Brother.

By THE MARQUISE DE FONTENOY.

Until now it has been assumed generally that Prince Albert of Belgium, who spent several months in this country a few years ago, was destined to succeed King Leopold, and that his father, the count of Flanders, had waived in his favor his rights of succession to the crown on account of age and infirmity, especially of the incurable deafness with which he is afflicted.

The recent quarrel between King Leopold and his brother, however, which culminated in the count of Flanders resigning his command of the Belgium cavalry, and the severance of his connection with the Belgian army, has likewise led him to make a public announcement of the fact that he had not the slightest intention of abandoning his rights of succession to his son, and that if he survives his brother, King Leopold, he intends to succeed him as ruler of Belgium. The count is several years younger than his kinsman, King George of Saxony, who has just followed his elder brother, King Albert, on the throne at Dresden, and there is no reason, therefore, why he should consider himself too advanced in life to take the place of his brother Leopold when the latter is gathered to his fathers.

Sensation in Brussels.

The announcement has created a considerable sensation, not only in Belgium, but also throughout Europe. In the first place King Leopold has been in the habit, during the last five years, of presenting and treating his nephew Albert as the next heir to the throne, and, secondly, the count of Flanders is strongly opposed to his brother Leopold's Congo enterprise and thoroughly disgusted by the numerous scandals to which its administration by Leopold has given rise. The count of Flanders' sentiments in the matter are those of nearly all sensible and respectable people in Belgium, and there is but little doubt that if he ascends the throne he will, with the consent of the chambers, take steps to institute a conference of the great powers, including the United States, for the purpose of restoring to them the free state, the sovereignty of which was intrusted by them to King Leopold in 1884 at Berlin.

It may be remembered King Leopold on several occasions has offered to the Belgian government to turn over to it the Congo Free State in return for the assuming of certain financial responsibilities in connection therewith. On each occasion the offer has been declined at any price in spite of all the influence King Leopold managed to bring to bear upon the government and the national legislature in connection with the matter.

The count of Flanders is very rich. He can well afford to dispense with any money that might accrue to him from the Congo Free State if he were to succeed to the throne. He realizes its possession is calculated to disgrace the Belgian crown and imperil the Belgian nation.

Talking of New Government.

Ex-President Casimir-Perier has been offered the position of French ambassador at St. Petersburg, and it is likewise reported in Paris in diplomatic and official circles that he has been sounded as to whether he would consent to enter any cabinet which Waldeck-Rousseau might be asked to form on the resignation of the present premier, the ex-Abbe Combes. It is rumored that in the event of his joining a Waldeck-Rousseau cabinet he would do so as minister of war.

There is no precedent in Europe for a former president of a republic becoming, not the premier, but one of the cabinet ministers or ambassadors of his successor as chief magistrate. But there are precedents in the new world. Numbers of South American statesmen after completing their term of presidency have taken up their residence in Europe as ministers plenipotentiary of their respective republics, and even here in the United States we have found ex-President Harrison accepting a quasi-diplomatic position in Europe in connection with the Venezuelan controversy.

There is no doubt that, from a French point of view, Casimir-Perier's appointment to the position of ambassador at St. Petersburg would be in every respect a most excellent one. Indeed, he would enjoy there a prestige and influence which no other foreign envoy could hope to achieve. To begin with he is enormously wealthy. Then he is a knight of the Russian order of St. Andrew, a distinction so rarely accorded that there are at the present moment only four Russians not of imperial birth who wear its blue ribbon across their breast. Casimir-Perier received it as chief magistrate of France, and during his term of office as such likewise was invested with the Spanish order of the Golden Fleece, added to which he wears the Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor as a former grand master of the National order of France.

Why He Resigned Presidency.

It is known everywhere abroad that like Marshal MacMahon he resigned the presidency of the French republic because he found himself powerless to prevent a policy for which as the executive he would have been responsible, but which was diametrically opposed to his principles as a man of honor and his sense of patriotism. He won the respect of all those who are aware of the true circumstances that led him to make way for President Faure. Nowhere does he enjoy a higher regard than in Russia, and as ambassador there he would be regarded much more in the light of the representative of the French nation as a whole than as the subordinate of the minister of foreign affairs at Paris for the time being.

At the court of St. Petersburg he would always be treated more or less as an exruler and enjoy the prestige as such, which would be of inestimable advantage to his country.

I may add that while no one dreams of suspecting his republicanism he is allied by his own marriage and that of his daughter to the oldest aristocracy in France.

Francis Joseph Famous Hunter.

Every year just about this time Emperor Francis Joseph inaugurates the shooting season by a species of pilgrimage to the little church of St. Anthony of Padua, situated in the immediate neighborhood of his shooting lodge at Kaiser, among the loftiest peaks of Upper Styria. August 10 of each year finds this imperial Nimrod, who holds the record of the world as a chamois hunter, kneeling before the high altar of this tiny church, which was built more than 300 years ago by Archduke Ferdinand, who afterwards, as Emperor Ferdinand II., inaugurated that terrible thirty years' war which devastated the greater part of Central Europe and set back the progress of civilization, of industry and commerce for more than 100 years.

Ever since its erection this little church has been known as the emperor's church. And it has always been a traditional custom of the ruler of Austria to make a pilgrimage thither on the opening of the shooting season each year. In 1872 Francis Joseph erected a shooting lodge in the immediate vicinity, and as the still wonderfully sturdy old monarch knelt before the altar the other day in silent prayer he must have thought of the many times when his wife and only son, both taken from him by violent death, used to kneel by his side on these occasions.

A Proud Family.

"What have they been doing now?"

"Why, look at the conceit of them! Just to display their wealth, they put their box of coal ashes on the front porch every morning, and make the garbage man ring the bell for it, so that all the people on the street will notice."

Assigned to the Real Thing.

From the New York Tribune.

Senor Emilio de Ojeda, who has succeeded the Duke of Arcos as minister from Spain to the United States, has had a long and varied experience as a diplomatist. In 1898 he was secretary of the peace commission in Paris, where he became intimately acquainted with Senator Frye and other American commissioners. Recently Senor de Ojeda has been minister to Morocco, but previously he held portfolios in nearly all the capitals of South America.

It was his lot to represent his country during serious revolutions in many of the republics to which he was assigned. The day following the receipt of the news from Madrid that he had been made minister to the United States a friend called at his legation headquarters in Tangier. The minister was busily engaged arranging his papers.

"What news?" asked the visitor.

"Not going to South America again, I hope?"

"No," responded Senor de Ojeda, "I go to a country that is perpetually blessed, an El Dorado. It is a nation where revolution is unknown and where the reward of the government is an utter impossibility."

"I fear, your excellency," said the caller, "that you are preparing to join the communion of the saints above."

"Quite the contrary," laughed the minister; "I have been assigned to the United States of America."

A Pleasant Change.

From the New York Sun.

"I was sitting on my doorstep a few evenings ago," said a dweller in Gramercy park, "when I saw a man stop in front of what is known as the Samuel J. Tilden house and remove his hat. After remaining uncovered for a few moments he passed on. A half hour later he returned, and, stopping in the same place, again removed his hat, looked at the building and went his way. A third time he returned and did likewise. Prompted by curiosity, I asked him why he did it.

"'You will pardon a stranger,' he replied. 'I have never been in New York before. I live out in Nebraska. I was told when I came here that this was where Samuel J. Tilden formerly lived, and I am just paying my respects to the memory of the last real Democratic presidential candidate I ever voted for, and I reckon from the way it looks I'll never have a chance to vote for another.'

"'And then,' he continued, 'it is such a pleasant sensation to take off your hat now and then of your own accord. When I am at home and pass the home of another man whose name you might know if I should mention it, I generally hold my hat on with both hands to keep it from being blown off.'"

Two Kinds of Crime.

From the New York World.

When President Roosevelt said at Windsor, Vt., that 'the crimes of craft and the crimes of violence are equally dangerous," and that "the law must get at the big man who goes wrong just as it gets at the small man who goes wrong," he uttered nothing more than an old American truism. But by reminding strikers who break the law by violence and coal presidents who break it by crafty evasion that they are equally "going wrong" the president spoke a word in season and in season that should be respected by both sides.

AT TWILIGHT.

What witchery dwells in the evening gloam
When the fire burns low and the shadows roam
Like fitting ghosts where the dim light falls
In flickering shapes on the dusky walls?
What spirits come when the heart goes back,
And moves again o'er the darkened track—
That walk with me through the Long Ago
In the evening hush when the lights are low?

What shadows over the dim room creep
To silent mourn or to pause and weep
And place a wreath on some crumbled tomb
Half lost in the dust of the ancient gloom?
Forgotten shapes that in silence come
When the ears are dulled and the lips are dumb,
And only the dream tides ebb and flow
In the evening hush when the lights are low?

Gray spectres out the vanished Past
Come stealing forth; and all fying fast,
The mystic ones from the Future greet

SAYS HILANDS DID NOT PLAY FAIR IN DEAL

Van Tine Claims Profits on Carnegie Company Stock Were Not Divided.

PROMINENT MEN INVOLVED

Suit Is the Outcome of Transfer of Carnegie Company to the United States Steel Corporation—Van Tine's Statement of the Case.

W. H. Van Tine returned yesterday from Chicago, where testimony was taken last week in his suit in the United States district court of New York against W. J. Hilands. The suit is to recover about $300,000, which Van Tine claims was paid to Hilands as commissions on the sale of Carnegie Company stock and which he says should have been divided equally between Hilands and himself. Mr. Van Tine is very hopeful of winning his suit, and he yesterday gave the following statement concerning it:

"The erroneous reports and interviews given in several Chicago papers Sunday, August 31, are not in justice to the case in hand and in many instances are not correct. In November last I started suit against W. J. Hilands of Chicago in the United States courts of New York for an accounting of partnership funds arising from profits realized by said partnership in the sale of Carnegie Company stock.

"This suit is brought on grounds of false statements rendered as to the profits arising from said sales and for an accounting thereof. The statement by the attorneys for the defense that my suit is based upon an imaginary partnership, in which I seek to recover a division of enormous profits are correct only as to amount of profits, but not as to any imaginary idea as to the partnership.

Formed a Partnership.

"W. J. Hilands entered into partnership with me to sell stocks of the Carnegie Company and to divide equally all profits arising from the sales. The plain fact is that he reported falsely the actual profits of the sales and has, with others, tried to cover up the details of the several transactions and deprive me of my just share of the profits. This fact is the cause of the litigation now pending and which has been kept from publicity in New York papers where the trial has been in progress since November, 1901.

"The complications are many and quite amusing as the sworn testimony of witnesses and parties involved are brought out. My claim to half of the profits is based upon a written contract and verbal contracts which I witnessed in some of the most respectable and best known business men of Pittsburgh. In the sale of A. M. Moreland's stock there was a profit of $93,400, of which I received $1,000 as an equal half of profits.

"In the John Walker stock there was a profit of about $77,000, of which I received $1,000 as an equal half of profits.

"In the H. M. Curry estate stock there was a profit of $143,000, of which I received nothing, as the statement of Hilands was that there were no profits in this deal at all.

"The testimony as heard in New York brings out facts that do not verify these figures, and also that parties who participated in the division of the profits have fought in every way possible to keep the participants from showing who and how much they secured.

Both Paid Commissions.

"In the A. M. Moreland sale $5,000 was paid by Mr. Moreland as commission for selling and $88,400 by J. P. Morgan & Co., as the buyers. The adjustment of the profits between Hilands and myself as equal partners was that the total profits were $5,000 paid by Moreland and that Col. John J. McCook of the firm of Alexander Green & Co. of New York was to receive $2,500 and that other parties were to receive $200, which left $1,000 each as an equal division of partnership profits.

"Mr. Hilands testified on the stand last Friday that he had paid Alexander Green & Co. $1,500 and Col. McCook $1,000 personally and the other $500 to someone else. Hilands denied repeatedly to Mr. Moreland and myself that he had pocketed $88,400 paid to him by Morgan & Co., and which he now has the audacity to claim was made a present to him by J. P. Morgan personally, and which fact has been proved by Mr. Pearson Hamilton of Morgan & Co. was paid as commissions on Moreland stocks.

"Mr. John Walker, as stated by him in court, negotiated the sale of his stock through me, first in Pittsburgh and finally completed by Hilands, my partner, in New York, in which there was a profit of some $76,600, of which I received from Hilands an equal division of profits $1,000.

A Big Telephone Fee.

"Cross-examination of Hilands brings out the statement by him that he had to give Richard Delafield, president of the National Park bank, $24,877 because he telephoned Morgan & Co. that Hilands was on his way down to their office for a check, and that he also had to pay the National Park bank $1,000 because they kept open to certify to checks to close the deal.

"Mr. Delafield, in first examination, had no recollection of getting anything, and said that he had paid Hilands money, instead of receiving money. On second examination of Delafield he did recollect getting $20,000, but did not know what it was for, but that Hilands was not in the deal in any way. Mr. Hilands' testimony certainly clears this mystery as to his statements.

"Thomas D. Chantler, representing the Curry estate as attorney for William Curry, executor, with 2,829 shares of Carnegie Company stock, was introduced to me by Mr. Walker in New York and by me to my partner, Hilands, the following day. On the 26th day of February, 1901, Col. J. J. McCook, Chantler and Hilands got together and sold the Curry estate stock for $1,000 a share, netting a profit of $143,000.

Produced Bank's Records.

"On examination, under special order of court that National Park bank produce records of Hilands' account, it was shown and was sworn to by the cashier of the bank, that Hilands received $48,100 out of this deal. The bank fought bitterly against the summons that they should be called upon to show their records, but the court ordered it, disclosing the money Hilands received. Hilands had claimed that no profit was received by him in the Curry deal.

"The testimony of Col. McCook, taken in New York, shows his sworn statement that he acted as attorney for Chantler and received from him a reasonable legal fee for his services. Hilands swears that McCook handled the whole deal and made $75,000. The rights under my partnership I believe will enable me to know who got the $143,000 and what proportion I am entitled to under my contract.

"William Curry, executor, swears that the estate paid some $30,000 commissions through Chantler, but where is the balance of $143,000? The facts given are substantiated by testimony in court and under my contract I am seeking to recover a just division of the profits in these stocks are about $311,000, and my contract calls for an equal division of profits and $2,000 was represented to me by Hilands to be one-half.

Checks for $3,033,000.

"In the Curry estate deal J. P. Morgan & Co. made checks payable to National Park bank for $3,033,000 in two checks that were honored and the proceeds distributed to parties in the deal, and neither one of the checks indorsed, and the bank officials positively refuse to disclose the disbursement of these funds or to whom they were paid, excepting that Hilands got $18,100 and the balance of the participants must be protected and not disclosed.

"After getting evidence from reliable sources that I find been wronged in these transactions and now trying to establish my right by law. I do not propose leaving out anyone who has conspired to deprive me of my rights or my partner, who under false representations, deprived me of my just share of profits."

CATSUPS AND SAVORY SAUCES.

Catsup Making.

When any considerable quantity is required, the time it takes to prepare catsup has proved a bugbear to many housewives who would really prefer their own preparations to those made in wholesale quantities and seasoned and flavored to suit the average but not too epicurean taste of the general public. The busy housewife who discovered the secret of making cold catsup conferred upon her sisterworkers a greater blessing than she knew, for this far excels the cooked catsup in every respect; requires but little time or labor to prepare and has this additional advantage, it requires no sealing and will keep indefinitely if put up in perfectly clean bottles with new and tightly fitting corks. The important essential is that of having the tomatoes in perfectly fit condition, over-ripe and unsound tomatoes cannot be used, not only in making fresh catsup, but for cooked catsup, unless you are satisfied to take chances of having all your labor thrown away as well as the fruits of your labor.

Cold Catsup.

Take a peck of solid, ripe and perfectly sound tomatoes, wash them well and then cut into slices. Add to them a pint of finely chopped white onions, sprinkle two thirds of a cup of salt over them and allow to drain several hours. Then chop fine with a pint of crisp white celery and five or six peppers, then drain again. Add a pound of sugar, three quarts of vinegar, half a pound of mustard seed, a half pint of fresh grated horseradish, black pepper, mace, cloves and cinnamon to suit the taste. Mix all well together and bottle and cork. When it has stood 24 hours it is ready for use.

Cucumber Catsup.

Large, partly ripe cucumbers may be used for this. Pare them, split lengthwise and remove the seeds and chop the remainder very fine. The food chopper will prove a great assistance in making catsups. Drain the chopped cucumber on a fine sieve or in a piece of coarse cheese cloth. When dry, measure and to each quart of pulp allow a pint of best cider vinegar, two even teaspoonfuls of salt, half a teaspoonful of cayenne, and half a cup of grated horseradish. Mix well, put in bottles and cork tightly. Some use white wine vinegar, preferring a lighter-colored catsup, but the cider vinegar is best for keeping.

Grape Catsup.

Wash, drain and stem five quarts of grapes; add just enough water to cook and heat until soft enough to put through a sieve or colander. Put the pulp in a granite or porcelain-lined kettle; add two quarts of sugar, one quart of best cider vinegar, three tablespoonfuls each allspice, cinnamon and cloves, one tablespoonful of salt, two teaspoonfuls of red pepper, or black, if you prefer, and boil down until quite thick; bottle and seal.

Plum Catsup.

If the small red plums are mixed with the common blue plum they make a nicer catsup. Take one-third of the tart red variety and two-thirds the quantity of blue plums. Add just enough water to cover and cook gently until soft enough to reduce to a pulp. Press them through a colander, weigh the pulp, and to five pounds allow three pounds of granulated sugar, a cup of best cider vinegar, and a level tablespoonful each of ground cloves and cinnamon, a little celery salt, to taste, and two teaspoonfuls of plain salt. Boil gently until a rich, rather thick sauce. Bottle and seal.

Grape Sauce.

Pulp six quarts of grapes and boil the pulps until soft; then press through a sieve to remove the seeds. Chop very fine five large onions, three peppers and the skins of the grapes. Add to the pulp with two tablespoonfuls of salt, one quart vinegar, four cups sugar and cayenne to suit the taste. Cook down until thick, strain again, reheat and bottle and seal while boiling hot.

INQUIRIES ANSWERED.

Mrs. J. T. H. writes: My mother used to make an apple dessert she called "apple dowdy," which we all enjoyed. I cannot remember the recipe and would like to try my hand in making this dish. Can you assist me?

Apple Dowdy.

This should be made of tart apples. Pare and cut a dozen tart apples in quarters; remove the cores, place the apples in a deep saucepan or baking dish, pour over them a cup of molasses, add a small piece of butter, about an ounce and a pint of hot water. Set over a moderate fire and let come to a boil. In the meantime make a paste with a pint of sifted flour, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, half a teaspoonful of salt and milk to make a dough soft enough to roll out easily. Roll or pat out large enough to fit top of the saucepan or basin. When the apples are boiling put this over them, cover tightly, leaving room for the crust to rise, and set over the fire, where it will boil gently for 20 minutes. Do not lift the cover until done, giving it five or ten minutes over specified time rather than have the crust heavy and not well steamed. Eat with hard sauce or sweetened cream. The crust is turned out on a hot plate and the apples spread over top.

Cocoa Made With Condensed Milk.

Mrs. A. R. B. writes: Can you use condensed milk in making cocoa, and if so, how do you proceed?

Fill the cups a little less than a third full of the condensed milk; add a heaping teaspoonful of cocoa and mix well together; then fill the cups up with boiling water and stir until chocolate and milk are dissolved. Do not add sugar, as the milk will sweeten it sufficiently.

This may be made in a double boiler if preferred cooked. While it is scalding whip it with an egg beaten to make it lighter and more dainty.

BODY'S DAILY FUEL SUPPLY.

Man needs a certain amount of food to run his body, just as an engine needs coal, water, oil and repairs. Starch is by far the most important part of man's diet, this "coal" being about three times the required quantity of "oil and repairs." Starchy foods should be dextrinized, however, as they overwork the stomach. The easiest, most appetising and best way to secure the necessarily rich is through the use of that thoroughly cooked cereal, Toasted Wheat Flakes. It makes an ideal starch-dextrinized food—ideal in that it gives the amount of energy required; ideal because being delicately sweetened with Malt Honey, it tempts the palate; ideal because it furnishes the starch dextrinized for rapid and easy assimilation, thus saving the stomach this work. Genuine packages show the Battle Creek Sanitarium.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglass Stewart returned on the St. Paul Saturday from their wedding trip abroad. They were met in New York by Mrs. David A. Stewart, Mrs. Lucy A. Kramer and Mrs. Herman Griffin, who went east on Friday and with Mr. and Mrs. Stewart are spending a few days at the Holland house. Later, after spending some time with Mrs. Stewart's mother, Mrs. John S. Dickson, and also at the Stewart residence, in Lincoln avenue, Allegheny, they will go to housekeeping.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart's wedding in the early spring was one of the most brilliant events of the post-Lenten season in Pittsburgh, and a few days later they sailed from New York for a long European tour, which terminated on Saturday. While the young people were traveling abroad Mrs. David A. Stewart and Mrs. Kramer went to York Beach, where they have spent the season, closing their cottage last week before going to New York to meet the travelers. Mrs. Griffin, a sister of Mrs. Douglass Stewart, has been summering at Deer Park, Md., and is not expected home for several weeks yet.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart had a very pleasant trip visiting England and the continent and frequenting many of the picturesque places out of the usual path of tourists. Mr. Stewart has traveled much abroad since his early college days and the results of some of his travels are to be found in exhibits in the Carnegie museum. He is devoted to archaeological research and has explored the ruins of several ancient cities and provinces in southern Europe and Asia Minor.

The Hospital Picnic at Calhoun.

Notwithstanding the rain over 5,000 people attended the picnic at Calhoun park yesterday, for the benefit of the East End Charity hospital. Though the rain interfered to some extent with the arrangements made for the day, it did not dampen the ardor of the enthusiasts who braved the weather and attended the big outing. Throughout the morning and in the afternoon, there were various contests, races and games, handsome prizes being presented the winners. The pony and outfit raffled off attracted a great deal of attention, especially from the little people present. There was dancing and Phinney's Chicago band gave concerts afternoon and evening. A number of subcommittees took charge of the affair, under the supervision of a large general committee, which was aided in the sale of tickets by hundreds of prominent people throughout the city.

The picnic was given for the purpose of raising funds for the extension of the East End Charity hospital, in Frankstown avenue, near Fifth avenue, East End. The hospital is at present located in the old Finley house, a portion of the estate having been purchased some months ago, which will be the site of a large and thoroughly modern hospital building.

A Wedding on Thursday.

Miss Martha Baldwin Ranson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin B. Ranson of the Colonial building, Wilkinsburg, will be married to Maj. Louis Sanford of New Castle, Ky., on September 4, at the home of the bride. Only the immediate friends of the family will witness the marriage, which will take place at 6 o'clock in the afternoon. There will be no attendants. An eastern trip will be made by the couple, after which they will go to their future home in Kentucky. The bride to be is a member of an illustrious southern family and is a granddaughter of Col. W. L. Baldwin, a member of both of Kentucky's leading families. The Ransons have been residents of Wilkinsburg only a few years, having moved from the south on account of Mr. Ranson's business interests here. Miss Ranson is a graduate of Oxford college, Ohio. Mr. Sanford is engaged in business in New Castle.

Engagement Was Announced.

The engagement was announced yesterday at a small tea given by Mrs. Andrew Jackson Boyle of Bell avenue and Anderson street, North Braddock, of her fifth daughter, Miss Jennie Flora Boyle, and John Edward Thomas, also of North Braddock. The wedding is set for the last week of the present month, the exact day not yet having been made known. The wedding will be a home affair and the ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Dr. Nicholson H. Holmes, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church of Braddock. The bride-to-be has been one of the popular girls in social circles in the Monongahela valley for several seasons. She is a daughter of A. J. Boyle, superintendent of the steel mills of the Edgar Thomson plant. The groom is a roll-turner at the plant of Dilworth, Porter & Co., of the South Side.

A Coming Wedding.

At St. Joseph's Catholic church, New Brighton, Pa., on Sunday, the banns were published for the coming marriage of William K. Gordon, chief clerk of the freight department of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad at Pittsburgh, and Miss Mary Elizabeth Finn of Monaca. The announcement came in the nature of a surprise to the friends of both parties. Mr. Gordon is a prominent Knight of Columbus.

Last of the Season.

This evening the 1901-02 club of Homestead will give the final dance of their summer series at Kennywood park. The list of patronesses of the club includes nearly all of the leading society women of Homestead. The committee having this evening's dance in charge is composed of Arthur Elmer Orr, James Charles Kuhn, Dr. John McMasters Stewart, Dr. Charles Clifford Rinard and Stewart B. Duguey.

Returned from England.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew W. Mellon are home again in Pittsburgh, after spending the summer in England. They returned on the steamer Celtic, on Saturday, coming on to Pittsburgh yesterday. The greater portion of July and August they spent in Hertfordshire, England, Mrs. Mellon's former home, and stayed away from London and the coronation festivities.

GRAND ARMY ASKED TO AID OLD ENEMIES

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN., Sept. 1.—Gen. Eli Torrance, commander-in-chief of the G. A. R., has issued an appeal to the Grand Army veterans, asking that they contribute funds to aid in the erection of a home for ex-confederate veterans, now being built at Mission Creek, Ala.

The appeal is a lengthy one and in it the chief pays a high tribute to the bravery of the men who wore the gray. He cites the fact that it has been impossible to secure the aid of congress, and that the only way in which the home can be built is by the aid of veterans of the north and south and of other patriotic citizens of the republic.

He believes, he says, that such action on the part of the G. A. R. will demonstrate more strongly than anything else that all sectional feeling as a result of the war has passed away.

American Generals Dined.

BERLIN, Sept. 1.—Maj. Gens. Corbin and Young and Brig. Gen. Wood, and the other members of their party, visited the military school at Lichtenfelde today. Lt. Col. J. B. TORTURING DISFIGURING HUMOURS

The agonizing itching and burning of the skin, as in Eczema; the frightful scaling as in psoriasis; the loss of hair and crusting of the scalp, as in scalled head; the facial disfigurement, as in pimples and ringworm; the awful suffering of infants, and the anxiety of worn-out parents, as in milk crust, tetter, and salt rheum,—all demand a remedy of almost superhuman virtues to successfully cope with them. That CUTICURA remedies are such stands proven beyond all doubt. No statement is made regarding them that is not justified by the strongest evidence. The purity and sweetness, the power to afford immediate relief, the certainty of speedy and permanent cure, the absolute safety, and great economy have made them the standard skin cures and humour remedies of the civilized world.

MONONGAHELA CLUB OPENED ITS DOORS

Has the Most Finely Appointed Club Rooms in This Part of the Country.

The new Monongahela club, occupying part of the thirteenth, fourteenth, fifteenth and sixteenth floors of the Peoples Savings Bank building, was opened to its members and guests yesterday. The quarters are handsomely furnished, every detail being reduced to a thorough system, especially in the cuisine department, the intention of its promoters being to introduce to Pittsburgh something entirely new with reference to service and menu. To accomplish this they have placed in charge of the club Steward George Schmitt, for 12 years head of the catering department of Delmonico's, New York, said to stand at the head of his profession in this country. He is paid a salary greater than many bank presidents.

The club has a membership of 500 business and professional men, with 200 on the waiting list. Mr. Schmitt says he can feed 1,000 men in two hours, the dining room seating 175.

The club rooms were crowded all day yesterday and all the invited guests were very much pleased with what they saw, and thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

One elevator is run specially for the benefit of the club members.

On the first floor is a ladies' reception and dining room, also private dining rooms for dinner parties, with maids always in attendance. The reception room is furnished in pink and golden oak and the dining room in blue. The fourteenth floor consists of the office, billiard room, cafe, strangers' room and reception room and library, the last furnished in red and mahogany. The next floor contains the dining room, in Flemish and antique oak, the directors' room, stores and barroom. The sixteenth floor is used as a kitchen, wine room, help's hall and steward's room. On mezzanines between are the wash rooms, silver rooms, linen rooms, etc. The electric dumb waiter, costing $1,500, is one of the interesting features, as it works automatically.

The officers of the club are: President, W. I. Mustin; vice president, George M. McCandless; treasurer, D. McK. Lloyd; secretary, W. A. McCutcheon; resident secretary, Julian Metcalf; directors, W. I. Mustin, George M. McCandless, W. A. McCutcheon, Humphries Miller, Charles A. Painter, J. D. Lyon, John S. Craig and S. M. McElroy; house committee, W. A. McCutcheon, John B. Barbour, A. J. Lawrence, H. H. Farren and A. R. Web.

WHY SHOULD YOU SUFFER?

Why endure the indescribable agonies that follow in the wake of those diseases that come under the head of "female weakness?" The Creator surely never intended that one should so suffer. Yet thousands of women go through life bearing this burden of ill health under the mistaken impression that it is natural, that it is the lot of every woman. Yet what a fearful mistake this is! How far from nature it is! When there's a remedy open to all that will surely cure all these diseases and give renewed life and vigor to all—to the woman most enfeebled by any of these terrible maladies.

Mrs. Evans' Female Remedy,
68c per Bottle,

is available to all. Its price brings it within the reach of all. And the fame of this medicine is worldwide. It is not a "may cure" or a temporary relief. It is a sure cure. See how some of our own citizens speak of it:

"May 20, 1902.
"After taking several bottles of an extensively advertised compound for female weakness without success, I was advised to try MRS. EVANS' FEMALE REMEDY. I have used two bottles of the medicine and have been greatly benefited, and am continuing its use. I have found, too, that it helped the kidneys very much. Would gladly recommend it to anyone suffering from female weakness.

"July 10, 1902.
"I was a great sufferer with female trouble, and was treated by all the best physicians in the city, and found no relief until I was advised to try EVANS' FEMALE REMEDY, and now I am a well woman. I heartily recommend it to anyone suffering with any kind of female trouble.

FALSE TEETH

Most people wear false teeth, and while many use them as if they "grew there," others are completely disgusted with them. Few dentists are specialists in the making of teeth, although expert crown makers and fillers are easily found. Making artificial teeth is our specialty. We usually mount them on Zylonite and always use Doctor Gallagher's attachment, which positively prevents the plate from moving. We make them for $5, and give a certificate guaranteeing perfect fit, natural appearance and wear for 10 years. No better teeth can be made, no matter where you go or what you pay.

Pittsburgh, Pa., August 17, 1902.
Dear Doctor—I want you to crown a lower tooth for me next week. What day shall I call? My upper plate is perfectly satisfactory. It never moves. My husband is going to have you make him a new set. MRS. A. R. COOK.

We remove the most sensitive teeth for the most delicate people without the least particle of pain, free, and without using suffocating vitalized air or gas. Call and we will carefully examine your teeth without charge and tell you what should be done. You are seen at once. No waiting. Open daily from 8 a. m. to 9 p. m. Sundays from 10 to 4. [SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

New York, Sept. 1.—Capt. Clarke and his men with their "winning" way, took both games from the Hanlonites today at Washington park, Brooklyn. Both games were won in the ninth inning, after an uphill fight. Four thousand spectators witnessed the morning game, and not until the ninth inning could the Pirates do much with Donovan, who up to this had the best of the pitching, averaging a strike out to an inning up to the seventh, and in the sixth inning he disposed of Zimmer, Chesbro and Beaumont.

"Happy Jack" Chesbro pitched his customary effective game against the Brooklyns, allowing them to score only in the fifth and seventh innings, and in the eighth inning, after Keeler hit for three bases and Dolan reached first with none out, he easily disposed of the next three batters on weak hits.

Some Sensational Catches Made.

All the fielders, in the morning game, which was by far the best game, made sensational catches, Clarke and Keeler excelling in this respect. Burke's batting in the two games was timely, having five hits to his credit for the day and sending in what proved to be the winning run in the morning game.

Both sides drew blanks up to the fifth inning of the morning game, when Brooklyn made two runs. Not until the seventh inning could the Pirates get a man over home plate. In this inning Leach walked, Wagner went out at first and Leach scored on Tannehill's out.

In the eighth Zimmer got his base on balls, Chesbro singled and Zimmer took third, scoring from there on Keeler's sensational catch of Clarke's long fly to the fence. Burke's single in the ninth, after Leach and Wagner had singled, won the game for the Pirates, he sending in what proved to be the winning run. The Brooklyns scored twice in the fifth on three singles and Donovan's long fly. In the seventh they added another tally. Flood hit for three bases and scored on Irwin's long fly.

Pittsburgh had everything its own way in the afternoon game, notwithstanding the Superbas started off in the lead and victory seemed assured. But by batting in the eighth the Pittsburghs tied the score, and two singles gave them the winning run in the ninth.

Leever pitched good ball all through the game, while Kitson was touched up right lively during the seven innings he pitched, Evans relieving him then. The Pirates got their first run in the afternoon game on a single by Tannehill and Burke's smash for two bases in the second inning.

Leacvh There With His Bat.

In the sixth inning Clarke doubled to right and moved to third on Beaumont's out. Leach scored Clarke with a single, Tannehill made a long single to center, enabling Leach to score. Burke and Conroy singled, scoring Tannehill. Smith struck out, leaving the score a tie. Both Leach and Wagner reached first on errors. On Burke's single Leach scored. While Evans was changing places with Kitson Wagner stole third. Burke stole second and Wagner came home. Conroy's grounder hit Burke. Smith's single carried Conroy to second, and he scored on Leever's single.

In the ninth, after Wagner had bunted and stolen second. Burke was there with the goods. He singled, sending in Wagner with what proved to be the winning run, duplicating his morning performance.

Brooklyn scored two runs in the first. After two men were on bases Dahlen hit a grounder to Leach, who threw over Wagner's head and into the Bleachers, all three men scoring. Ahern punched a single past second. Kitson hit a high fly to Clarke and he made a marvelous catch, Beaumont making another good catch of Sheckard's skyscraper. Keeler tripled, sending in Ahern. Irwin hit into the bleachers in the sixth inning, which resulted in a home run.

Keeler and Dolan hit singles in the seventh. Dahlen sacrificed, and on Mc-Creery's fly to Leever, sprinted home. Flood singled, sending in Dolan, which ended the run getting. The scores.

MORNING GAME.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—The New Yorks lost the morning game through their ragged fielding. They hit the ball much harder than St. Louis did, but misplays by Bowerman, Lauder and McGann were costly. The St. Louis club fielded excellently. Curry was hit so hard by the New Yorks that Murphy replaced him. The score:

This filled the bases and Mitchell was so rattled by the mishap that he gave Powell a base on balls, forcing in the deciding run. Attendance, 3,000. Score:

Labor Day Amateur Baseball Games

WINDSORS WON THE ALLEGHENY CHAMPIONSHIP

Franklin Team Lost the Third and Deciding Game of the Series.

FOURTH INNING FATAL

The Windsors Took the Lead Then and Were Not Headed—Both Twirlers Pitched Good Ball and the Contest Was a Hot One.

By taking the third and last game from the Franklins at Exposition park yesterday afternoon the Windsors won the championship of Allegheny. The contest was a close one from start to finish, as the score of 3 to 3 shows. The fourth inning proved a bad one for the Franklins, as they allowed their opponents to score four runs, which gave the Rough Riders a lead which they maintained to the close.

Both slab artists, Healey and Kommer, were in good form and pitched excellent ball. The Windsor twirler allowed but five hits, while double that number were made off Kommer. The fielding of both teams was good, and the errors charged to the players in some cases were excusable.

Balston, Patton, Roban and Mooar, for the Windsors, played a star game, while there was no discount on the work of Peifer, Carney and Lippert, for Franklin. Craig's double to left was the longest hit of the game.

The Fairbanks started things in their half of the fourth, getting two men around. Then the Windsors came in for business, and only stopped when four runners came across the plate. The Windsors got one more in the seventh, and the Germantown boys one in the eighth. The first game was won by the Fairbanks June 28, 3 to 1. The second was pulled out by the Windsors on August 2 by a score of 7 to 1, leaving the rubber until yesterday. Score:

CANADIAN CRACK BADLY BEATEN

SCHOLES WAS ROWED TO A STANDSTILL BY FRANK VESSELY.

This Was the Surprise of the Day at the Middle States Regatta on the Harlem. Many Races Were Close and Very Exciting.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Louis Scholes, the Toronto rowing club crack, was beaten to a standstill by Frank Vessely of the Bohemian B. C. at the thirteenth annual regatta of the Middle States Regatta association, rowed on the Harlem river today, the time being 3:38¾. It was the most surprising incident of an exciting day of sports, and hundreds of dollars changed hands on the result. The water was in fair condition for rowing, and the time in several races was very fast. The course was along the Harlem river speedway, and the distance one mile straight away.

In junior eight-oared shells the race was comparatively easy for the Dauntless B. C. of New York, and with the wind and tide in their favor they broke the mile record for the course, rowing the mile in 4:25½. Crowley, a sculler from Worcester, Mass., won the junior single in a style which showed that he is likely to be heard from in the future.

In the final heat of association senior singles Fred Fuessell of the Harlem R. C. had a hard race with Smith, the Canadian sculler, but Fuessell had considerable in him at the finish, and won by a length. The final heats of the junior four-oared gigs and the intermediate four-oared gig race were won by the Arundel B. C. crew of Baltimore, the same men winning two events in sweeps. The senior four-oared shell event was a stirring contest with four crews, Bohemian and Nassau of New York, Pennsylvania barge of Philadelphia, and Institute of Newark, N. J. The last named crew soon fell back, but the others kept well together, first one ahead and then another, the Quakers finally winning by a half length.

Another great surprise was the winning of the eight-oared shell event by the Dauntless Rowing club of New York, who defeated the crack Harlem crew. The Dauntless took the lead after the quarter and were never headed, winning by a length and a half. They also carried off the honors by winning junior and senior events in one day.

NEW YORK WINS CARBINE MATCH

First Troop of New Jersey Second. Massachusetts Revolver Team Wins Trophy for Third Consecutive Time and Keeps It.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

RIFLE RANGE, SEA GIRT, N. J., Sept. 1.—The very cream of the sharpshooters of nearly a dozen states of the Union and of the United States marine corps, as well as a hurriedly organized team from the department of the east, United States army, are in fine fettle for the big event of the interstate rifle tournament, the Hilton trophy match. This competition will open at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Much jubilation was manifested today by the New York detachment when the last shot was fired and it became evident that Squadron A team had won the carbine team match. Its total was 203, out of a possible 250. The first troop of New Jersey was second, with 203; the team of the Pennsylvania squadron third, with 198. The other team totals were: First troop of New Jersey second team, 190; Troop L, First Georgia cavalry, 190; Troop A, Maryland, 179; Troop A, Maryland, second team, 172; Battery B, New Jersey, 146.

The revolver range was crowded all afternoon, everybody at Sea Girt seemingly being personally concerned to some extent in the outcome of the revolver team match. The distances were 25, 50 and 75 yards, every man firing two ranges of five shots each. It was required that each string should be fired within a time limit of 30 seconds.

The team representing Battery A, heavy artillery, Massachusetts, captured first prize, a trophy, a medal to each member of the team, and $25. Second prize, $25, was won by Squadron A, New York, and third prize, $10, by Troop A, Maryland (first team). This being the third time Battery A, Massachusetts, has won this match the trophy becomes its property.

The interclub match, the final competition today, was shot with a strong, gusty wind blowing across the range. The contest was for the rifle club championship of the United States. It was open to teams of five men from any rifle club in the United States. Each man fired 10 shots at 200 yards on the standard American target.

It had been planned to shoot the match simultaneously on the home ranges of clubs throughout the country. All the teams that entered, however, were in camp here, so the match turned out to be as distinctly a Sea Girt competition as any of the others. The first prize was a championship banner and a gold medal to each member of the winning team, the second prize, silver medals, and the third prize bronze medals for the team members. The match was won by Cottage Rifle and Revolver association of Jersey City. The Gallatin Shooting association (first team), second, and Philadelphia Rifle association third.

Labor Day Makes the Markets Quiet

PITTSBURGH PRICES FOR FARM PRODUCTS

Oat and Wheat Straw Higher. Produce Prices Are Easier.

Hay, Grain and Feed.

The only price change made yesterday was in straw, both oats and wheat being stronger, with quotations higher. Oats continue to arrive plentifully, but quality is off, wet weather during harvest causing the grain to be off in color, thus grading unsatisfactorily. Corn is firm at quotations.

AN ABNORMAL SITUATION.

A Local Broker's Opinion of the Stock Market Based on Current Prices.

"Viewed as a whole, the stock market situation appears to us to be abnormal," writes James Carothers & Co. "It is true that crops are abundant, harvest conditions have been almost ideal, industrial affairs are prosperous, railroad earnings continue to show increases over any previous corresponding period; bank exchanges reflect a well sustained volume of general trade; financial credit is sound, and the money market situation is as easy as usual at this season. Still, we feel that average prices of railway shares have largely discounted the future, while average prices of industrial shares reflect the lack of confidence in a continuation of present prosperous conditions due to doubts as to the ability of the great manufacturing companies maintaining present rate of dividends.

"With a view to showing the relatively wide difference between the most prominent shares the stock market we have compiled the following tables. They show the interest or dividend rate, and the yield to the investor at current prices, of the highest and lowest priced securities in the eastern and the Pittsburgh markets:

"We feel that the only reasonable conclusion to be drawn from these comparisons is that either the railway shares are too high, the preferred issues of the industrials average too low. Transportation and agricultural interests cannot continue prosperous and industrial interests at the same time be depressed, or vice versa. All these figures are so interdependent that it seems to us that arguments justifying the present average prices of railway shares should justify a higher average price for industrials. On the other hand, if the industrials constitute a more delicately adjusted barometer of real conditions, the present position of affairs indicates that the average price of railway shares is too high."

ALL STOCK EXCHANGES AND BANKS CLOSED.

All the stock exchanges, the banks and trust companies, as well as the grain and produce exchanges, in the United States were closed yesterday in honor of Labor Day. Consequently the financial district of Pittsburgh was about as deserted as it usually is Sunday. Many of the local brokers left Friday after business hours for the seashore and the mountains to rest during the three days' holiday. This morning at the regular hours business will be resumed as usual.

For the convenience of those who have lost the trend of prices at Friday's close, and who may desire to refresh their memories before the markets open this morning, the sales and range of prices at that time from the leading centers of the country are herewith presented.

THE WABASH GETS DOWNTOWN LOTS FOR TERMINALS

They Are in Ferry Street and Were Bought for $50,000.

EXCHANGE DEAL OF $35.000

Two New Bellevue Houses Bring $14,100—Polish Synagogue for McKeesport—A Boom on at Lyndora—Remarkable Lot Sale.

The Pittsburgh, Carnegie & Western Railroad Company has concluded the purchase of three small properties in the First ward for $50,000. Title to the plots was secured from the John Willock estate through the agency of Seidel Bros. The properties extend across the right of way of the railroad and consist of a lot 33x70 feet at the northwest corner of Second avenue and Ferry street, a lot 52x90 feet in Ferry street, next to Bair & Gazzam's, and a strip four feet wide extending 95 feet in the rear of the Bair & Gazzam block. Two of the lots are improved with two-story brick buildings. The Wabash has already started condemnation proceedings against the property of Bair & Gazzam at the corner of Third avenue and Ferry street, and it is reported has secured an option on the remaining small lot between the two Willock properties in Ferry street. This will give the road possession of the entire block facing on the west side of Ferry street and extending from Second to Third avenues. According to the present survey only the rear half of the properties will be used for track purposes.

Farm Traded for City Property.

J. C. Dwight & Co. have closed an exchange deal involving realty valued at $35,000, by which John M. Montgomery, president of the Consolidated stock exchange, conveys to Christopher Byrne a farm of 161 acres for property. The farm is located in Richland township, Allegheny county, and is 16 miles from Pittsburgh on the line of the Pittsburgh & Western railroad. It is well improved and the purchase price, $35,000, included the coal rights. In exchange for the farm Mr. Montgomery gets four brick houses on a lot 100x100 feet on the south side of Butler street, near Fifty-seventh street, a lot 72x120 feet at the southeast corner of these two streets, and four lots 25x326 feet each on the east side of Fifty-seventh street. These properties were put into the deal at $20,000, the difference being paid in cash.

Quick Sales in Bellevue.

Two more of the houses lately built by E. Hallett in the Second ward, Bellevue, were sold yesterday for $14,100. The larger residence is an 11-room brick house situated on the west side of Fairmount avenue and brought $9,000. The other is an eight-room house facing on the south side of Hallett place, and was purchased for $5,100. Both are colonial brick dwellings and are finished in hardwood. The purchasers are Pittsburgh business men, who bought for homes. Of the 17 houses of this kind which Mr. Hallett built last year in Hallett place, and vicinity 11 have been sold during the past 90 days at prices ranging from $5,000 to $8,000. Plans are now being prepared for 10 more similar residences to cost in the neighborhood of $8,000 each. Mr. Hallett intends to start these this fall on the 261 feet of vacant frontage which he owns in Lincoln avenue.

New Synagogue Planned.

Plans are being drawn in the office of Architect J. P. Bailey for a new Polish synagogue in McKeesport. The building will be erected on the corner of Third and Market streets, and will cost at least $20,000. In addition to a large audience room and class rooms the building will contain a swimming pool and bath rooms.

Lyndora, the new town of the Standard Steel Car Company at Butler, is fast taking on the appearance of a thriving suburb. Over 70 houses are now under way on the plot of 100 acres which the company bought several months ago. These are the buildings standing on lots 40x120 feet each. In addition to this bunch the contract has been awarded for the erection of over 100 more similar houses, which will be ready for occupancy by November 1. The work of grading the streets is practically completed and water and gas mains and sewers are now being installed.

Just west of the big steel car plant the 26-acre plot, called Parkview, is being improved rapidly. Streets have been graded and 12 frame houses started on the plan.

Ready for the Contractors.

Bids are being taken by Architect F. J. Osterling for the erection of the two-story brick and stone building which the Society for the Improvement of the Poor proposes to erect, at the corner of Petrel and Millvale streets, Allegheny.

Architect T. E. Billquist is receiving estimates on a brick business block and Y. M. C. A. building at Washington, Pa.

Architect T. H. Scott is taking bids on a three-story store and apartment building to be erected by Peter W. Schmidt, at Clairton, Pa.

Two brick houses, to cost $20,000, are to be built in Dithridge street by George W. Thels. Plans for the dwellings are in the hands of Architect F. H. Stolte, who is taking bids on the construction.

The borough of Sewickley has under contemplation the erection of a brick and stone municipal building for which preliminary plans are to be drawn by Borough Engineer D. H. Campbell.

A Midweek Lot Sale.

On Thursday the new suburb of Rennerdale will be formally opened with a big public sale. The plan was bought some time ago by W. W. Elderkin and has been graded and improved with several hundred shade trees lately. It is situated 11 miles from Pittsburgh on the main line of the Panhandle and is also on the proposed line of the Carnegie & McDonald Street Railway Company. The lots are from 60 to 75 feet front with a depth of 198 feet, and range in price from $200 to $800 each. A special train will leave the Union station at 1:30 p.m. to carry the prospective buyers.

Summerlea street, Ivy A. Clark & Co.'s addition between Wilkins and Penn to Highland No. 600 Summerlea street, a 10-room frame house, on lot 40x182 feet, for $8,500. The same brokers sold lot No. 9 in Mr. Clark's plan of lots in the Tenth ward, Allegheny, to Joseph S. Smith, for $850. The lot faces 25 feet on Osgood street, with a depth of 101 feet, and will be improved at once with a modern nine-room house.

Suburban Deals.

Avalon: E. A. Hess & Co. sold for George Zortman to Norval Zook a lot, 20x100 feet, in Center avenue, Avalon, for $3,000. The lot is improved with a six-room frame house.

Oakmont: James Marshall has made the following sales of Oakmont property: For the Riddle estate, 10 acres in H street, for $9,000; for M. A. Verner, a lot in I street, $2,800; for Joseph Garver, an improved lot in Railroad avenue, $2,500; for C. Lindsay, a lot in the same avenue, $2,000; for H. H. Willock, a lot in H. street, $1,500; for M. K. Livingston, a lot in Eighth street, $1,200; for F. A. Cooper, a lot in B street, $1,200, and for J. W. Pane, a lot in B street, $750.

Two Probably Drowned.

ALBANY, Sept. 1.—A steam launch containing 10 young men was capsized in the Hudson river near here today, and two of the men, John Hewitt, a hotel proprietor of this city, and Robert Carmichael, a vaudeville performer of New York, are missing. Both are believed to have been drowned.

LARGE ATTENDANCE IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

OPENING DAY CALLED THE PUPILS FROM THEIR VACATION.

It Is Expected That the Enrollment This Year Will Show a Total of About 50,000—Allegheny Schools Will Open Today.

The peal of bells yesterday morning called many thousands of the school children of Allegheny county from their summer vacations. It was the opening day of the public schools in Pittsburgh and many of the boroughs, and thousands of pupils were enrolled. In Pittsburgh the pupils were dismissed at 10 o'clock, in honor of Labor Day, after the enrollments had been completed. The Allegheny public schools were not opened yesterday, but they will be opened this morning.

The work yesterday was only preliminary and the actual school year opens today. Teachers and pupils will then take up the work of the scholastic session, and from the reports already received there is every reason to believe that the attendance will be the largest in the history of the public schools. While no official reports have as yet been received at the central board of education, Secretary Charles Reisfar said yesterday that official reports will not be received on the enrollment of the students until about September 26, but that he thought it would show a total of about 50,000 pupils this year.

The re-examination of pupils who were conditioned for admission to the High school at the June examination was held yesterday in the Fifth Avenue High school. There were 30 candidates for admission re-examined, but it will not be known before tomorrow or Thursday how many of them passed the ordeal.

Will Visit the Exposition.

Arrangements have been made for the children of the public schools to visit the Pittsburgh Exposition. The children will be classed in seven divisions, and the first division will visit the big show at the Point on Friday. The last division will go to the Exposition on September 26.

The public schools of Allegheny will open this morning. Shortly after the close of the last school year a calendar was made of the opening for the fall and winter, and the date fixed for Tuesday, September 2. This calendar was published and the pupils informed of the time of the opening of the Allegheny schools. "I think we will enroll about 600 High school pupils today," said Prof. James A. Morrow, yesterday. "I am unable to say what the total enrollment in all the schools of Allegheny will be, but I judge it will be about 25,000. We will hold our examinations and re-examinations for admission to the High school on Thursday. They will be conducted by Supt. John Morrow, and it may take the remainder of the week to finish them. We had expected to be in our new High school this fall, but the erection of the building has been held back owing to the delay of the manufacturers in furnishing material to complete the building."

The Allegheny High school has lost one of its most popular teachers. Miss Leo A. Vancil, teacher of English, has given up her position and she will be married to a prominent business man on Wednesday. She has been the instructor in English at the High school for the past two years. She is a graduate of the Nebraska State university. Prof. William Breitwieser, assistant in the mathematical department, who was taken ill in New York several weeks ago, will not be able to take up his work for a couple of weeks yet.

Eighteenth Ward Situation.

The situation in the Eighteenth ward school fight will probably be settled in the courts. Unless the courts relieve the directors of this school of their responsibilities there is every indication that school affairs will run along without a directing head. The school committee for the month of August, composed of two directors representing the woman principal side of the controversy, has notified the board that they have elected Miss Jennie Martin principal for the time being. Miss Martin opened the school yesterday morning and will be termed principal for three days. The school committee for September will be composed of two directors who favor a male principal, and it is alleged they will return Miss Martin to her former position of assistant principal and install as principal pro tem, in the event of no election tomorrow night, a teacher undesirable to the opposition.

Public schools in many of the boroughs opened yesterday morning. In Oakmont and Verona the attendance was almost up to the average of opening day attendance. The enrollment in the Wilkinsburg schools was very large.

All pupils presenting themselves for enrollment in any of the city schools this week must show a certificate from a physician certifying that they have been successfully vaccinated or have passed through the ravages of smallpox.

THE LIGHTS TURNED ON.

Decorators Have About Completed Their Work at the Expo.

The thousands of incandescent lights set high in the ceiling of the main building of the new Exposition and along the edge of its great balcony were yesterday turned on for the first time this season, and the "White City" of handsome booths presented an appearance that could not but cause enthusiastic admiration.

Decorators have about completed their work in the big music hall, carpet and matting are being laid on the floor and stage and another 12 hours will see everything in readiness for the grand Sousa concert that tomorrow night is to inaugurate the season.

Despite the counter-attraction of Labor day, which took some of the workmen from the Exposition buildings, the hammer was heard all day and late into the night, and the installation of displays went on uninterruptedly.

WELL-KNOWN MAN INJURED.

Steele Argyle Possibly Fatally Hurt Falling from a Car.

Steele Argyle, one of the best-known residents of Braddock and one of the oldest employes of the Edgar Thomson steel works, is at his home in Fourth street, Braddock, in a critical condition as the result of falling from a car on the Pittsburgh railways line in Braddock avenue late Sunday night.

Mr. Argyle attempted to leave the car at Corey avenue, Braddock, and in some manner he tripped, or was pushed by the crowd, from the running board of the car before it had stopped. He was thrown for some distance and rolled several feet after striking the pavement. When picked up he was unconscious and seriously injured about the head, face and body. He was taken to his home. On account of his advanced age it is feared the shock will prove fatal.

COMMENCEMENT ON FRIDAY.

Mt. Washington Schools Will Hold Exercises.

The annual commencement of the Mt. Washington schools will be held next Friday evening in Macmercher hall, Southern avenue. Prof. Samuel Andrews will deliver the address to the people and the Rev. J. W. Righter of Mt. Washington Methodist Protestant church will deliver the address to the classes. There will be an excellent musical program. R. M. Cargo is principal of the board and S. L. Neely secretary. The Mt. Washington schools made a splendid record last year, and it is proposed to bring the same results this year.

Most music stores sell "The Summer Days" for 25 cents, and it's worth it. Free with next Sunday's Gazette.

ATTORNEY PRICE MAKES TROUBLE FOR CONSTABLES

Hands Court a List of Places Which He Alleges Are Speakeasies.

OFFICERS MAKE DENIALS

Constable John Glenn Said That William Howard's House Was His Residence—First and Second Ward Officials Knew of No Speakeasies.

The hearing of the constables' returns, the swearing in and organizing the grand jury, the roll-call of the traverse jurors, a marriage, and the modification of a sentence comprised the work done in criminal court yesterday. Court was adjourned for the day at noon on account of the Labor Day celebrations.

Court opened for the September term with Judges F. H. Collier and Marshall Brown on the bench. A short intermission was taken because music of the Labor day parade interfered with business in the court room.

When the constables' returns were taken up Attorney W. M. Price handed District Attorney John C. Haymaker a list of 21 names of alleged speakeasy proprietors in the Second, Third, Seventh and Eighth wards, which he said had been given to him by certain of his clients, who asked that Attorney Haymaker be given a copy of the list. Attorney Price said that he had evidence with which to back informations.

A list of 10 speakeasies was handed Constable John Gray of the Eighth ward, who denied knowledge of all except one, which, with four others, he had on his list. Constable Gray claimed that some of the people named were earning honest livings and he was told to investigate each case and instructed to include them in his returns if sufficient evidence was found.

Price Gets in His Work.

On the list handed to Constable John Glenn of the Seventh ward were the following names: Lucy Walls, No. 18 Logan street; Annie Hunter, No. 1327 Webster avenue; Vinnie Washington, Logan street and Poplar alley; William Howard, No. 1212 Poplar alley; John Rolls, No. 1206 Poplar alley; Rose Walton, Poplar alley; Mrs. Smith, old No. 35 Poplar alley; Mary Smith, near Washington street. Constable Glenn said it was reported that Lucy Walls was running a disorderly house, but he did not know she sold liquor. Judge Collier asked if he did not inquire into the way such houses were run, and whether or not liquor was sold. Glenn replied that he could only ask the neighbors, and that they generally knew nothing of the matter. He said that Annie Hunter kept a respectable boarding house; that Howard's house was his residence, and that, although John Rolls runs a resort, he did not know that he sold liquor. Glenn was told by Attorney Price that evidence could be produced, and was told to look to District Attorney Haymaker for it.

The Meridian club, Forbes street, between Stevenson and Magee streets, was on the list handed to Constable Boland, of the Sixth ward. He said the only place he knew of in the district was a hall in which a bricklayers' union met, but he had received no complaints about them.

A number of alleged speakeasies were returned by Constable Peter Nock of the Fourth ward, but the names will not be made known until indictments are found and arrests made. The name of the Carlster club, No. 247 Diamond street, was on Constable Cavanaugh's list. The latter said that it was a pool room, and did not think it was a speakeasy.

Say No Speakeasies Exist.

Attorney Price presented the following list from the Second ward: Roy Carpenter, No. 432 Third avenue; Mrs. Grimes, Cherry alley and Third avenue; Myrtle Walton, No. 437 Third avenue; flats No. 301 Grant street, first flat on left side over billiard parlor; Mrs. Walsh, No. 440 Third avenue. Constable Morris of that ward said he supposed all the above named places were residences, and was told to call upon Mr. Haymaker and get the evidence against them. Constable Joyce of the First ward reported that he knew of no speakeasies in his ward.

Several of the borough constables were handed back their returns and instructed to make returns of certain alleged speakeasies. John P. Fahey of Stowe township reported the names of Timothy Scanlon and William McDonough. He said that on August 10 he heard that they were operating a speakeasy and went to investigate. He said he was seized by the men and kept a prisoner for several hours before he was liberated.

Constable J. M. Remington of Robinson township reported that a certain boarding house keeper sold beer to a boy named Brickley and to other minors, and he was instructed to make a return of it. Daniel Pinkerton of North Versailles township was told to look after a gipsy camp in his township, as stories have reached the court about the place.

Constable George Langman of Mifflin township was instructed to report "Duffer" Gould as keeping a speakeasy in a shantyboat at Dravosburg. Langman said the place had been closed.

Trouble for Wholesalers.

Charles McDonald handed the court a list of alleged speakeasies in Collier township, and when Constable Wilkinson of that township reported everything orderly McDonald asked to be sworn. This, however, was refused and Assistant District Attorney John S. Robb examined Wilkinson on the list handed in by McDonald.

The Wilkinsburg constable reported that wholesalers were selling liquor in that borough and delivering it, and that in some instances payment was made on delivery. He was instructed to return this in his report. Constable A. Aiken of Chartiers township was told to return the name of a man complained of by John Seivert.

The East Pittsburgh constable reported numerous slot machines were in operation there and was told to bring them to the court house. Frank Schell of Breckenridge was told to return that the St. Stanislaus Polish church of that place held a picnic and dispensed beer by the use of checks. The church members presented an affidavit stating that the money was for church purposes.

The constable of the First ward, Allegheny, was asked about the house of Adelaide Thornton's, in Corry street. He said he knew nothing of such a house.

Harry Kelso, a farmer of South Fayette township, was appointed foreman of the grand jury. The entire 24 persons summoned as grand jurors answered roll call. Michael Collins was excused.

Couple Married in Court.

When the list of traverse jurors was read 13 asked to be excused and 7 failed to respond. One of those who asked to be excused was a grocer of Bellevue, who said he had a pony no one could manage but himself. The court, however, said that the pony would have to be a secondary consideration.

J. W. Patterson, crier in quarter sessions court, who is also justice of the peace of West Liberty borough, performed the marriage ceremony of Isadore Schmidt and Beatrice Drane of Birdville shortly before court adjourned. The ceremony was performed in the smaller room of criminal court in the midst of a large crowd of spectators. Drane had been in jail for several days on a charge preferred by the bride.

Harry Sherline was released from jail on his own recognizance to pay his wife, Darah Sherline, $5 a week. He had been sentenced to give a $600 bond as surety, but was released upon the consent of his wife.

WANT ROAD CHANGED.

Property Owners Petition for Review in Leet Township—Miscellaneous Business in Court.

Some miscellaneous business was transacted in quarter sessions court. A petition was presented for a review of a proposed road from Grand avenue, Leet township, to the Blackburne road, Sewickley township. The signers to the petition are J. W. Oliver, Robert Wardrop, R. T. M. McCready and George E. McCague. This is joined in by the commissioners of Leet township.

It is stated that a portion of the road making a curve at the property of James M. Bell and Henry W. Oliver would be against the interests of the property owners, it being a 7 per cent grade in most of the district. It is said a much easier grade would be obtained by locating a road a short distance south of the present location there, while the expense would not be as great.

John Rebman, David A. Miller and John W. Jones were appointed as a commission to inquire into the propriety of changing the boundary lines of the election districts in the Twenty-third ward. Howard L. Turner, Mark A. Robb and Joseph L. McKnight were appointed as a commission for a like purpose in West Liberty borough.

In the matter of the division of the borough of Crafton into three wards the report of the commission was confirmed absolutely.

A petition was presented for the appointment of Hugh Fishwick as tax collector of Hays borough. The tax collector-elect refused to serve.

Liquor Licenses Transferred.

There were 21 applications for the transfers of liquor licenses. The list was decreased yesterday by Judge E. H. Stowe, who transferred the following licenses: Peter S. Huckestein, from No. 116 Sixth street to Frank C. Smith, Hotel Victoria; James S. Jiles, Second ward, to Edward Shicklund; Mary Voelker, Millvale, to John A. Rapperger; Joseph Kohler, First ward, to William A. Cunningham, wholesale; Frank T. Schleer, Fourth ward, to James M. Walsh and James White; Thomas C. Rafferty, Twelfth ward, to Andrew J. Bentz; George K. Pipoloy, Fourteenth ward, to John and Alexander Asmougyn; Charles F. Steele, Fifteenth ward, to George F. Brist; M. A. Minikus, Nineteenth ward, to Herman M. Weber; Richard J. Buck, McKeesport, to John P. Hoerr, wholesale; Kate L. Chisholm, McKeesport, to John W. Taylor; Frank Becker, McKeesport, to Henry McGory; Philip Volk and Harry Beisel, Duquesne, to John Beisel and Peter Schuette.

LEGAL BRIEFS.

A petition was filed in the United States district court by Claude Leroy Kinter, a carpenter of Mill creek, Erie county. His liabilities are $3,090.75, and assets $2,345.

All of the offices in the court house, except the sheriff's, were closed yesterday. The marriage license clerk was in his office for a short time. Quarter sessions was the only court in session.

Arguments were made yesterday before Register W. W. Walker in the contest over the will of Christian Lange. A petition had been presented by Anna M. Greller to prove a will that had either been lost or destroyed.

MUST ANSWER FOR UNWARRANTED RAID

The East End police officers, who entered the home of George Foster, in Collins avenue, on Saturday night and mistreated the members of the family and their guests, on the pretext that a poker game was in progress in the house, will probably have to answer for their offense to the police board. Superintendent McAleese has ordered a full report from the inspector of the district, and will act promptly in the matter.

The police say that the neighbors had made complaints about the house, and that was the reason for the raid. The family is highly respected in the district, and the action of the officers is generally condemned. The police ransacked the house from top to bottom, but could find no evidence of the gambling they alleged was going on. They had no warrant and no evidence against any of the residents.

As a matter of fact, it is said that there was not even a game of cards in progress and the members of the family and their guests were really indulging in an informal musicale, when the police broke up the evening's entertainment.

Shiras Denies Resignation.

Justice George Shiras, Jr., yesterday denied the report printed in a morning paper that he had sent his resignation to President Roosevelt.

IMPROVEMENTS IN OHIO RIVER STRONGLY URGED

Tonnage Will Increase 50 Per Cent With Navigation All the Year.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE

Chamber of Commerce Directors Concur in the Recommendations Made. A Delegation Named to Attend Improvement Association Meeting.

A very comprehensive report on the importance of Ohio river improvements was made to the directors of the chamber of commerce yesterday by the committee on rivers and harbors. The committee's recommendations were strong and to the point, and if carried out will place Pittsburgh still farther in the lead as the greatest tonnage city in the world.

President A. J. Logan presided at yesterday's meeting. Capt. W. B. Rodgers made the report of the rivers and harbors committee. The following is the full report:

"The enormous traffic of the Ohio river and its navigable tributaries and the possibilities of its increase when the system of improvements now well under way shall in their completion give free navigation throughout the year, has commanded the attention of congress and the nation generally. The present river trade of the Ohio valley is officially stated at 16,000,000 tons, the harbor of Pittsburgh alone furnishing 9,000,000. A reasonable estimate of immediate increase resulting from continuous navigation would be 50 per cent and ultimately an enlarged traffic so great as to exceed the utmost expectations of the friends of the Ohio river improvements.

Packet Service Increasing.

"In addition to the present tonnage of heavy freights, the packet service in carrying passengers and local freights is constantly increasing despite the incomplete work on river improvements. During the months of June and July, usually the poorest of the year for transportation, the packets have been carrying full loads, every state room being taken and 50 to 75 cots made up to accommodate passengers. A reasonable estimate for packet service, with the river improvements now under way completed, would be two large steamers daily between Pittsburgh and Cincinnati.

"Instead of seeking to complete one dam annually congress could well afford to provide means for construction simultaneously of all the dams now under way and those located and approved by United States engineers. Until the present time, however, congress could not be prevailed on to undertake so great a work of river improvements, preferring the old way of providing for a limited measure of construction each year. It is of utmost importance, therefore, that the reports of Maj. W. H. Bixby, late in charge of the Ohio river, and Capt. Craighill of the upper Ohio, not only give an unqualified indorsement of continued improvements of the rivers, but recommend appropriations sufficiently large to proceed with the work on all dams now under contract or approved by surveys at once. Capt. Craighill's report is appended and should be considered a part of this paper.

Capt. Craighill's Recommendations.

"In brief, he recommends the appropriation of $3,223,400 in addition to other moneys now provided, in order to prosecute to completion dams covering all important parts on the river from dam No. 1 to Cincinnati. The remaining dams, 25 in number, are necessary to perfect the canalization of the Ohio river, but the completion of the 11 new dams now under way would lengthen the navigable season at least 33 per cent.

"In addition to the above reports the Upper Ohio is now under examination by a commission of United States engineers, viz., Col. Lydecker of Cincinnati, Capt. Sibert of Pittsburgh and Capt. Craigaill of Wheeling, with a view of improving the Pittsburgh harbor and increasing the minimum stage of water from six to nine feet between dams Nos. 1 and 2, which would involve the dropping of the lower sills of the existing lock at Davis Island dam three feet and dredging out the channel below until the deeper water of the pools shall be reached. This once accomplished would be a boon to river navigation of greatest value. An inspection of the rivers by members of the river and harbor committee in congress is expected in a personal visit during the coming autumn and their favorable indorsement of the engineers' recommendation will be a potent factor in securing favorable congressional action. The interests of the Ohio valley demand:

What Is Really Needed.

"First: That the Ohio river be so improved as to provide a nine-foot draft at low water from Pittsburgh to Cairo by the time the lathmian canal is completed.

"Second: That all obstructions to the free and full use of such waterway or the harbors connected therewith be removed coincident with the improvement.

"Third: That congress be urged to adopt the entire project as stated above, and to provide sufficient funds for continuously prosecuting the work so as to insure its completion in the time specified.

"In view of these important considerations your committee would advise:

"The appointment of a strong delegation to attend the forthcoming convention of the Ohio River Improvement association at Parkersburg and urge the adoption and approval of the foregoing recommendations.

"That the Hon. John Dalzell, member of congress, be invited to accompany the representatives from Pittsburgh, and

"That the chamber of commerce should unite with the coal exchange in arranging for a suitable reception and entertainment of the congressional committee during its visit to this city, and use other proper means for insuring the immediate prosecution and completion of all river improvements that may insure unbroken navigation throughout the year."

The Report Discussed.

The presentation of the report was followed by a brief discussion. Judge B. M. Smith of Wellsville, O., representing his town, said that with but one railroad in their town the people realized fully the value of river competition and would give all the assistance in their power to further the improvement project. Mr. Leaf of Rochester, Pa., said that Rochester fully appreciated the great benefits river improvements would mean to that town, and that the citizens were anxious to lend their assistance. A cablegram from J. N. Pew, who is abroad, was read, and he said he considered the measure of the utmost importance in the city's affairs, and regretted he was necessarily absent when the report was read.

Secretary George H. Anderson also spoke of the great benefits of a nine-foot stage of water from Pittsburgh to the Isthmus canal and its untold opportunities. On motion of Mr. Eaton the report was adopted as a whole.

President Logan then appointed as the delegation to the Parkersburg convention the committee on rivers and harbors, W. B. Rodgers, James Henderson, John A. Wood, James F. Burke, H. P. Bope, J. F. Finley, George Heard and George H. Anderson. An invitation was directed to the Hon. John Dalzell, Senator M. S. Quay, Congressmen Ernest F. Acheson and S. W. Jack to attend.

The membership committee reported the following, who were elected members: Wycoff, Seamens & Benedict, Iron City Engineering Company, Standard Chain Company, S. C. Smith, Capt. W. L. Sibert, W. C. Gundelfinger, A. W. Smith, William Gibson, Pittsburgh Terminal Railroad and Coal Company, Haugh & Keenan, James A. Grunewald, Robert Finney, A. M. Schoyer, James P. Orr and Edward B. Taylor.

The committee having in charge the collection of the Sheraden fund was discontinued and the members relieved.

The Second Day of Our Big Autumn Sale.

If any women desires new Autumn Dress Goods at near the half price line, her opportunity is in this Autumn Sale, the second day; if any woman desires a Jacket in Fall or Winter weight, identically the same styles that will be worn the coming season, she can buy it here for less than half prices; if any woman likes those handsome Dress Collars, that are so pretty worn over the black Jacket, or the dark colored waist, she can buy them in this sale for half.

The foregoing, at random, show the possibilities of this store at the present time, followed by a series of quotations that represent the underprice idea in force here.

The Exposition.

All urban and suburban residents of Pittsburg have a pride in their Exposition, the more so as it is the only annual industrial exhibit maintained by any city year in and year out.

To be sure, the industrial center of this country lies at the head of the Ohio river, but at the same time were it not for the push and that indescribable Pittsburg snap, our Exposition long ago would have gone into desuetude.

As it is it grows better and better as the years come and go, and this year the managers have taken long strides in the way of betterments.

The opening Wednesday evening, with Sousa and his band as the musical attraction, will be one of the Autumn events.

And right here we desire to say to all who purpose visiting the Exposition that the freedom of this store is theirs. We ask them to accept all its conveniences with the full assurance that they are heartily given over to them.

Ladies' Hemstitched Handkerchiefs 9c Each.

Most women bought them yesterday 3 for 25c.

They are pure Irish Linen, so far as the linen goes just as pure as flax can make it.

We have often seen handkerchiefs for 15c, indeed, we have sold them ourselves for that price, that were not any better than these for 9c.

And we have some embroidered Initialed Handkerchiefs that we are selling for 10c, that usually sell for about eight cents more.

Third Less for Fine Toilet Sets.

Doulton ware! If you have not seen it, you have, at least, heard of it. A fine English ware that has a reputation all over the world.

$30 Sets to $20.00	$15 Sets to $11.00
$25 Sets to $16.50	$12 Sets to $ 8.50

The Autumn and Winter Weight Jackets.

Every style that will be worn this Fall and Winter, all the medium and heavy weight cloths, sold for less than half prices.

And if you want light weight Jackets, they are sold for about half. These quotations:

Women's $12 to $18 Jackets $5.00.
Women's $15 to $22 Jackets $7.50.
Women's $20 and $25 Jackets $10.00

The other Jacket feature is light weight Tan Etons of splendid kersey cloth. The trimmings are facings of white silk, which in turn are edged with handsome lace. These are high-grade Jackets and sold for $20 and $25. Choice today will be $10.

Another line of fine tan Jackets, some of covert, some of kersey, will be priced as follows: $20 Jackets for $12.50; $25 Jackets for $15.

The Dress Collars and the Boas and Ruffs.

Looking into store keeping with all its varied phases, it is questionable whether there ever was such another splendid offer as this one of handsome Dress Collars at less than half prices, and the ruffs at exactly half prices.

It is a fine example of the buyer having his eye upon the main opportunity.

The 75c and 85c Collars for 35c each.
The $1 Collars for 50c each.
The $1.25 Collars for 63c each.

The $2.25 and $2.50 Collars for $1 each.
$2.00 Boas, or Ruffs, for $1.00.
$3.00 Boas, or Ruffs, for $1.50.

Cent-and-a-Half Each for Jelly Tumblers.

Each has a heavy tin top. The fruit may be dear, as there is some talk that way, but the vessel in which to preserve it in extract is laughingly cheap.
